Mayor--Should Legislators Get Fees on State-Aided Project?

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

The city's secondary sewage treatment program and said he will turn over all information he has on the project to the city council's Pollution Plant Committee.

The mayor's remarks followed approval by the council in a 10 to 2 roll call vote on a motion to hire State Rep. Horace Calvo of Granite City as bond attorney for the $15.3 million secondary treatment program which will include construction of additional treatment plant facilities and a series of interceptor sewer lines. The city now expects to issue about $3 million worth of revenue bonds to finance initial construction work until it can qualify for state and federal grants. About 20% of construction cost, including engineering fees, will need to be advanced by the city before grant funds will become available.

Wouldn't Touch
"I wouldn't touch this project now with a ten-foot pole," the mayor told the council after the 10 to 2 vote was cast in favor of Calvo's appointment and the terms of a contract under which Calvo would handle all legal matters in connection with the bond issue.

Mayor Partney has been spearheading council activity in development of the secondary treatment program which state and federal anti-pollution officials have said must be completed not later than Dec. 31, 1973.

He told the council that he will prepare copies of all the information he has on the project in connection with the program, and asked that "the members of the pollution plant committee meet with me in my office so that I may turn over this material to them."

The Pollution Plant Committee is headed by Alderman Claude Green and includes Aldermen Walter Norn and Everett Marken members.

Calvo's appointment followed several verbal clashes between council members and the mayor over the legality of Calvo serving as bond attorney while he also is a member of the Illinois General Assembly. Leon Scroggins, city attorney, supported Mayor Partney in his contention that Calvo would be involved in a conflict of interest because the sewage treatment program will be financed in part with funds approved by the legislature.

Two Other Opinions
Two other opinions were introduced in the argument, however, one that was sent to the mayor by Calvo himself and the other obtained by Alderman Gerald Parmley from Wendell Hurr, an Edwardsville attorney and a constitutional convention delegate in 1970. Both of these opinions held that Calvo could handle the job because the money involved would be only the proceeds from the sale of the bonds.

The dispute over Calvo's appointment dated back to the Dec. 20 council session in which Alderman R. E. Robertson made a motion to bring in an ordinance appointing Calvo as bond attorney. In the Dec. 27 meeting, a week later, Mayor Partney vetoed Robertson's motion and was backed by an opinion from Scroggins that Calvo could not legally administer the program.

Oldest GC Store, Bunte, Observes 75th Birthday

Bunte's Shoe Store, Debar Avenue near 20th Street, the oldest store in Granite City, became a year older this week as it celebrated its 75th birthday. The city of Granite City passed the 75-year milestone in 1971.

When Art and Bill Bunte, brothers and owners, moved the door of their store 75th birthday morning, it marked the beginning of the 75th year of continuous business in Granite City, a record unequalled by any other retail firm.

Only a few months separated the incorporation of the city and the start of the store. A. F. Bunte Sr., founder of the business, established the store in the 1800 block of E Street (now Edison Avenue). His living quarters were above the store.

Although young in years when he moved here, he was old in experience in the mercantile business. His parents for many years had conducted a similar business, in St. Louis, and he grew up with it.

He was associated with his brother, E. H. Bunte, who had a store in Venice, beginning in 1890.

In January 1897, the Granite City store was opened as Bunte Brothers. The business flourished and, in less than a year, had outgrown its small coal-oil-lit quarters.

In December 1897, larger quarters were secured in the Herscov Building at 18th and D Streets (D is Delmar Avenue); 18th was the heart of the business district at that time.

When the move was made, A. F. Bunte Sr. rented one of the "90 bricks" as his residence. He continued to live there until 1906, when he moved into a new home at 2119 C Street (Cleveland Blvd.), where his grand son, Raymond F. Bunte, resides at present.

During the time he lived in the "90 brick," his four children were born.

In 1911, the Bunte Brothers partnership was dissolved and A. F. Bunte Sr. took over the entire business.

Seeing the downtown district gradually moving northward toward 18th Street and beyond, he secured the current location at 1941 Delmar Ave., opposite the new Granite City post office, now Civic Park.

A new store building was constructed and the business was moved there in August 1915.

Just as he grew up in the business, his two sons, Arthur F. Bunte and William F. Bunte, have followed in his footsteps. Both sons were taken into the firm as partners on Jan. 2, 1937, four decades after its founding.

A. F. Bunte Sr. died in February 1953 at the age of 81. The present owners take pride in continuing his tradition of individual service and genuine friendliness. "The customer's satisfaction is paramount and there is always time for a little personal chat."

Extra Madison Police Pay for College Study

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

An incentive pay program for Madison police officers who earn college credits in law enforcement studies was presented to the Madison City Council Tuesday night.

The program would allow policemen a $1 per month increase for each semester hour of study. In addition, the bonus pay is doubled when the 16-hour curriculum per semester is completed. The three-semester program allows each policeman to complete 64 semester hours, thus increasing his pay $128 per month.

Cost of the three-year program is funded partially under a state law enforcement grant. The city would pay 25% of the cost the first year, 50% the second year and 75% the third year.

"We already have received $1,700 from the grant for this," Mayor Mike Sayk told the aldermen.

Police Participating
He explained three officers already have received credits in the program and six presently are enrolled in law enforcement training classes.

The council requested George Filcoff, corporation counsel, prepare an ordinance for the city to participate in the incentive program. The ordinance will be presented at the council's next meeting Tuesday, Jan. 18.

Three Ordinances Passed
Three ordinances proposed at the council's last meeting were adopted, including a building code, a plumbing code and a new zoning plan.

The building code is virtually the same as used in Granite City and most other cities. It replaces the 1947 code which the city has been using with the Building Officials Conference of America, Basic Building Code (BOCA Code).

The proposed plumbing code will require all future plumbing be installed in compliance with the state plumbing code of the Illinois Department of Public Health, and calls for the appointment of a city plumbing inspector to enforce the code.

Create Zoning Plan
The proposed zoning ordinance calls for the creation of a seven-member zoning commission to prepare a zoning plan for the city. Sayk said he may appoint members to the commission at the next council meeting.

The ordinances are designed to bring the city within requirements of the federal government for participation in federal building assistance programs.

The council requested the city building inspector and legal department to begin condemnation proceedings against a home in the 1100 block of Greenwood Avenue which has been vacant 14 months. Ray Kojalek, alderman, described the property as a hazard to the area.

The chief of police, health officer and building inspector were requested to investigate unsightly conditions in the 700 block of Washington Avenue where some residents reportedly have allowed trash to collect in their yards.

In other business, the council opened three bids for 1,000 feet of new fire hose. The low bid was submitted by Harris Fire Equipment Co. of Granite City at $1,650. Other bids were made by Glazebrook Fire Equipment Co. of Washington, Mo., $2,800; the Harris Co. of Granite City, $1,900; and John Schumacher Fire Equipment Co. of Washington, Mo., $2,800.

The bids were referred to the city's purchasing committee for study.

Mayor Sayk congratulated the city street department on its work in removing snow from city streets during the snowstorm Monday night and Tuesday.

He said crews started work with the city's new salt spreader at 11 p.m. Monday and worked throughout the night and most of Tuesday.

Delay Street Engineer Payment a Third Time

Bills totaling $21,832 due the Research Planning and Design Associates, the city's special engineers for motor fuel tax projects during 1971, were delayed by the city council for the third time Monday night in a long-standing controversy over engineering fees listed in some of the bills.

Payment of the bills was recommended by Alderman Thomas Baker, chairman of the council's Finance Committee, who had been asked in a previous meeting to study the bills and make a recommendation for action.

A motion by Baker to pay the bills was blocked by a motion for deferral by Alderman R. E. "Mickey" Robertson.

Recognition of Robertson's deferral motion by Mayor Donald Partney resulted in a heated argument, with several aldermen pointing out that the mayor, backed by City Attorney Leon Scroggins, had ruled in previous controversial issues that deferral action had no legal standing.

Partney read a statute which permits deferral of debate and action on committee reports on a motion and a second.

The mayor said the deferral motion was non-debatable, but council members went into a lengthy debate, anyway, accusing the mayor and Scroggins of changing their opinions "to fit the situation."

On Claim List
Baker as Finance Committee chairman introduces claims for payment during council sessions.

He included the motor fuel tax engineering fees in the regular claim sheet. But upon its presentation, Robertson moved for their separation.

Robertson has spearheaded demands for an explanation of fees listed in several motor fuel tax projects. Research Planning Associates were held up in two previous council sessions.

Baker objected and told the council "In the last meeting, you

Woman Dies, Two Hurt in Auto Crash

A St. Louis woman was injured fatally and two persons were hurt when the car of Charles Henry Dinkins, 25, of St. Louis, and Leonard Komorny, Chesterfield, Mo., collided on Route 34 at West Chain of Rocks Road at 6:20 a.m. yesterday.

Mrs. Bertha Dilworth, 40, a passenger in Dinkins' auto, was pronounced dead upon arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital here, at 6:45 p.m.

Two other passengers, Mrs. Sharon Dinkins, 21, and Mrs. Ruthie Washington, 20, both of St. Louis, were taken to the hospital by ambulance for treatment.

Mrs. Dinkins was hospitalized with a scratch to her forehead and pain to her upper back. Mrs. Washington was treated for a concussion to the head and a leg and lacerations to both forearms. X-rays were taken and she was released.

The 1-year-old daughter, Crystal, who was riding on her mother's lap, responded to the crash with a head injury, as did both drivers.

Clothing Catches Fire, Venice Man Fatally Burned
James Johnson, 78, of 1024 Logan St., Venice, died at 1:55 p.m. Tuesday at the Veterans' Hospital in Madison, Mo., after suffering from a cigarette burn on his chest.

He received third degree burns over 80% of his body. Hospital officials said, Mr. Johnson, who had been blind 25 years, apparently was smoking in the bathroom of his home when his clothes began to burn.

Firemen were called to the home at 4:05 a.m. Tuesday to extinguish the flames and an ambulance took Mr. Johnson to Barnes Hospital, St. Louis. He was transferred to the plastic surgery wing of Veterans' Hospital where he was admitted at 5 a.m. in serious condition. He died nearly nine hours later.

Mr. Johnson was born in Pickens, Miss., where he was a 102-year-old mother, Mrs. Fanny Johnson, still resides. He has been a resident of Madison since 1917.

Survivors besides his mother are his widow, Mrs. Susie Johnson, and one brother, Elijah Johnson of Madison.

Arrangements are pending at an East St. Louis funeral home.

8-Cent Rise in County Government Tax Likely

(Fourth of a series)
Tri-Cities Taxpayers Public Expenditure Survey Group are projecting for the 1972 tax year, for which taxes are to be collected in 1972—show a $5,460,593 levy and a rate of 43.22 cents per $100 assessment.

The figures compare with $3,301,363 and a 35-cent rate for the previous tax year.

"The assessed valuation for Madison County for the 1970 tax year, for which taxes were collected in 1971, was $840,639,695, including railroad and capital stock assessments," a Survey Group spokesman relates.

"The Madison County Board of Review is not expected to complete extension of all assessments until Jan. 31 under an extension of time granted by the County Board of Supervisors."

"For this reason, the extent of variation from the 1970 property value cannot be determined at this point, and rates have been projected are based on last year's assessments."

"Our county rate projection reflects an increase of 8.22 cents per $100 valuation over last year's figure."

"The increase was kept at this figure because most of the large increase in the new tax levy is in the general fund. State statutes set a rate limit of 10 cents for that fund."

"The 1971 general fund levy is $3,444,000, compared to $3,818,916 for the 1970 tax year. Due to the limit, the rate will increase only from 8.72 cents to 10 cents."

"The extensive rise in the general fund is due to the fact that the new Illinois Constitution eliminates use of fees by such offices as the circuit clerk, recorder and sheriff's departments to pay their own expenses."

"These office costs now will be paid out of the general fund and the fees will become receipts of that fund."

Only 6 Weeks Remain To Get Auto Plates

Only six weeks now remain for Illinois motorists to have 1972 license plates mounted on their vehicles, Secretary of State John W. Lewis warned yesterday.

The deadline for having the plates on the vehicles, not merely applied for, is midnight Tuesday, Feb. 15. This applies to all vehicles registered on a calendar year basis.

At present, about 1,700,000 vehicles have been registered, an increase of about 50,000 over the same time a year ago, Secretary Lewis said. It is expected that 4,100,000 should be registered by the deadline and a little more than 5,000,000 for the entire year.

Lewis pointed out that license plates are third class mail, and require more time for delivery than first class mail. He urged motorists planning to apply by

New Benefits for Police, Firemen Hit Rough Going; Council Overrides Veto

The Granite City Council approved Monday night a new ordinance providing fringe benefits for city police officers after first overriding a veto by Mayor Donald Partney of part of a similar ordinance adopted in the Dec. 27 council session. The aldermen also attempted unsuccessfully to override a Dec. 27 veto by Mayor Partney of several sections of an ordinance providing benefits for city firemen. Mayor Partney declared out of order a motion to override that veto on grounds that the council must act in the same meeting in which the veto is announced.

The new police benefit ordinance approved Monday night provides that officers be paid for appearances in court on their days off, holiday pay for officers when the holiday falls on their days off, double and one-quarter time for working on a holiday, time and one-half for overtime worked, payment of 50% of accumulated sick leave upon retirement, and a minimum of four hours time when called out; a $150 per year clothing allowance and a provision that the benefits be retroactive to May 1, 1971.

The mayor's veto of a section of the ordinance passed Dec. 27 was overridden on a roll call vote of 12 to 0. Aldermen Walter Nunn and William D. Baker were absent.

The council called for a vote on a motion to override the mayor's veto despite the fact that the ordinance newly adopted in Monday night's meeting would have superseded the earlier measure.

Discussion over the fringe benefits for the two departments revolved into a lengthy debate in which Thomas Baker, chairman of the council's negotiating committee, pointed out that the benefits set up in the ordinances for both the firemen and the police were agreed upon in negotiating sessions last summer and were included in the budget.

"This council gets into the same old, turn-of-the-year routine, negotiate a contract," Baker said. "The council never seems to keep the same people on the negotiating committee. I don't think this was a bad package we offered the police and firemen. I plan to call the committee together before May 1 (when the council is reorganized) and get some things done before the committee is changed again."

The sequence of events went like this: On Dec. 20 council session council members approved an ordinance providing fringe benefits for city firemen. It provided that whenever the city declares a holiday, working firemen shall receive double time; that call-out pay be based on a 40-hour week; that engineers and captains receive the pay for that rank whenever serving in that position, and payment of 50% of accumulated sick leave upon retirement.

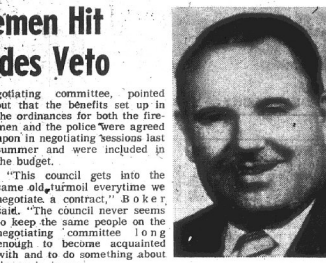

Mayor Partney announced his veto of two phases of the bill during the Dec. 27 council session. The mayor vetoed that part of the ordinance providing double time on holidays worked and the 40-hour base for overtime pay. He also vetoed an amendment that would make the provision retroactive to Aug. 1, 1971. The council instead of the veto message at that time, voted to place it on file.

In the same meeting, the council adopted an ordinance providing fringe benefits for police officers but, it developed later, that bill did not include all of the measures called for by the negotiating committee and a revised bill was ordered prepared for adoption in Monday night's session.

Mayor Partney announced his veto of the Dec. 27 police benefit bill shortly after the meeting opened Monday night. Several aldermen pointed out the action meant little since a new ordinance would be introduced. The mayor said that in that case he would withdraw the veto, but council members called for a vote on it, with the 12-0 subsequent roll call.

At a later point in the meeting, Baker moved that the mayor's veto of the firemen's benefit bill also be overridden. Partney, supported by opinions from City Attorney Leon Scroggins held that council action on a veto must be taken in the same meeting in which the veto is announced. The mayor ruled Baker's motion out of order.

"In that case we'll just bring in a new ordinance later," Baker said.

1,262 Quad-City Families Provided Aid at Christmas

Close to 1,300 families needing some form of assistance were cleared this Christmas-time through the Salvation Army office at 1239 Nineteenth St. The total number was called "staggering" by one Salvation Army worker.

In addition to gift baskets of food and toys for younger children, the Salvation Army provided 353 school-age youngsters with coats or shoes as special pre-holiday gifts.

Children receiving the clothing and footwear were selected by the principal and nurse at the building where they attend school.

The annual "Tree of Lights" campaign to raise funds to furnish food baskets to Quad-City families during the Christmas season, surpassed the 1971 goal of $1,000 by $250, Captain Ronald J. Kerley, local Salvation Army commander and Robert Thomas, district chairman, announced this week.

Inside the homemade canister was $11.54.

The children were Kelly Smith, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Smith, 2578 Spaulding Ave., Tom Kurilla, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kurilla, 2578 Pontoon Road and Christine and Joan Fabisher, 10 and 11, respectively, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Fabisher, 2571 Pontoon Road.

"Large and small groups and generous individuals joined to help exceed the goal we established and fully needed," the Salvation Army official noted.

later the post of bond attorney. The council placed the mayor's veto on file. In the same meeting, the city council overrode requests of the mayor that it wait arrangements of financing before proceeding with detailed planning on the treatment plant and interceptor sewers. The M.W. Inc., St. Louis engineering firm, completed preliminary planning and reports for the project several months ago, but had been instructed by the council, on the mayor's request, to hold up further detailed planning because that work would require about $400,000 in engineering fees.

Don't Have Money?
Partners contended the city did not have the money. Several aldermen insisted, however, that money which the city has in certificates of deposit, totaling about $420,000, could be used for the engineering work and then repaid from proceeds of the bond issue. It will take from three to four months to meet all procedures for issuance of bonds, city officials report. After Mayor Partney remarked he will have nothing further to do with the project, Scroggins remarked, "I suggest you hire Wendell Dunn as city attorney." With 12 council members present, the two voting against Calvo's appointment were Aldermen Sam Whitmer and Thomas Baker. Voting in favor were Partney, Robertson, Green, Frank Greenwald, Clyde Boyd, Steve Rasmussen, Paul Schuler, Emerald Daves, Roy Poole and Morlen. Norm and William Dallas were absent.

its according to state provisions.

According to Contract Boker reminded Robertson that fees charged by Kleiberger were according to contract provisions. "The contract may provide for the fees but that doesn't prove he is entitled to what he charged," Robertson countered. "I agree," Boker replied, "that there may have been some exceptional billing. All I can say is that he has not violated his contract." Robertson suggested that "we get in touch with the state and try to find out if these charges are reasonable."

Kleiberger, who was in the audience, at that point introduced George Adamson, District Eight engineer of the Bureau of Local Roads. He asked that Adamson be given a chance to speak.

Council members concurred in the request and Adamson told the aldermen that the bills in question had, in all instances, been checked by the state and found in accord with the work done. "These fees are set on the basis of work done by the engineer. We check these fees when the project first comes to us. The fees are in line or we wouldn't approve them," Adamson said.

Not Unusual
Alderman Sam Whitmer asked the Bureau of Local Roads engineer if he considered an $8,000 bill for engineering fees on a $27,000 project (Marshall Avenue improvement) reasonable.

Adamson explained that "the smaller the job, the greater the amount of engineering work in most instances. I would not consider that unusual." Robertson referred to $13,000 in "extras" on a project. In response, Adamson suggested that "if the council has any

Faculty, Staff Posts Frozen at SIU-SW

Dr. John S. Rendleman, president of Southern Illinois University-Southwestern, has announced a freeze on consideration of new faculty and staff positions for the fiscal year he begins July 1. The University will implement a policy of no replacements of personnel for the remainder of the present fiscal year, the president said.

The freeze is the second instituted within the last twelve months at SIU-SW. A similar situation arose last spring when it became evident that the university's operating budget for the current fiscal year would be slashed.

Rendleman said the latest freeze was instituted "in the light of budgetary pinpricks for 1972-73."

West-Schmitz Nuptials At St. John Lutheran

The wedding of Miss Peggy Schmitz, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Schmitz, 3005 Maryville Road, and Marine Corporal Kenneth West Jr., a son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth West Sr., 4200 Division St., was solemnized Dec. 21 at St. John Lutheran Church, 2001 St. Clair Ave.

The Rev. Samuel Boda and the Rev. Bill Willard heard the couple exchange their wedding vows at seven o'clock before an altar decorated with Christmas floral bouquets.

For her wedding, the bride appeared in a white satin gown, featuring a basque bodice, blue insertion ribbon created a yoke effect and was repeated on the chapel train of the A-line skirt. The dress was fashioned with a Victorian style collar and long sleeves slightly gathered at the wrists with cuffs of delicately ruffled lace.

A triple tiered, elbow-length veil of bridal illusion was secured with a petal headpiece and she carried a cascade of white carnations and Christmas holly.

Miss Barbara Schmitz, a sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and Mrs. Dan Millsap, a sister of the groom, served as bridesmaid.

They were dressed alike in royal blue crepe gown, formal length, designed with scoop necklines and long sleeves. White and blue lace-trimmed the cuffs and waist and rows of matching lace enhanced the front of the full skirt.

Both attendants carried bouquets of pink carnations interspersed with holly.

Corporal Dave West, a brother of the groom, served as best man, and Dan Millsap, the groom's brother-in-law, was groomsmen. Ushers were Joe Pfeiffer and Paul Haber.

Miss Jerri Clemmens, a friend of the bride, acted as the guest book at a reception given in the church fellowship hall.

Mrs. Schmitz was styled in a blue two-piece suit and matching accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. West, chose a two-piece knit suit in light green. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

Both young people graduated from Granite City High School.

The former Miss Schmitz was employed in St. Louis prior to her marriage. Cpl. West entered the service after graduation.

The newly married couple has moved to California to make their home near Camp Pendleton, where the bridegroom is stationed with the U. S. Marine Corps.

The story is illustrated with colored slides showing 12 historical paintings commissioned by Illinois Bell for the state's sesquicentennial celebration. The paintings are by noted historical illustrator Robert Thom.

Among the pictured art works are George Rogers Clark's conquest of the Illinois Territory; the Lincoln-Douglas debate; inauguration of Shadrack Bond as Illinois' first governor; and social worker Jane Addams, who established Hull House in Chicago.

Chairman of the meeting will be Mrs. Frank Sobkowski, with Mrs. W. Dean Wiley and Mrs. James Miller as hostesses.

Science tells us that our top layer of skin is 65 to 75 percent water which constantly evaporates and in most cases usually too quickly to keep the skin properly moisturized. When the skin begins to suffer from lack of moisture, tiny surface lines start appearing and in extreme cases of dryness the skin begins to flake.

Warrior Cagers Overcome Surprising Trojans, 87-78, in Overtime Battle

The Madison High School gym was the scene of some anxious moments Tuesday night as the Granite City High School basketball Warriors downed a surprising Trojan team 86-78 in overtime.

At the end of the fourth quarter it was 75-78.

In overtime action a bucket by Ed Chandler gave the lead to Madison 77-75, but with 1:43 seconds on the clock Terry Ripka on a charity toss and a field goal moved the Warriors ahead 78-77. Trojan Roger Glasper tie it again on a charity toss with 1:40 left.

Tom Vrenick then tagged a free throw and Ripka sank two buckets in rapid succession, topping it off with a free throw to make the score 84-78, with 35 seconds remaining.

Warrior Kevin Dyer made the final field goal with four seconds left.

Hold Slim Lead

The Warriors held a slim lead at the end of the first three quarters 27-21, 41-37 and 61-55.

The Trojans kept coming from behind to tie it up. With 1:17 to go to halftime the score was tied 37-37, and again with 3:04 on the clock in the fourth quarter the Trojans again tied it up 69-69, 1:32 in the fourth it was 71-71. The Trojans tied it again 75-75 with 52 seconds of regulation time remaining.

The Warriors hit 36 field goals out of 66 attempts for a 55% average from the floor, and the Trojans sank 30 baskets in 64 attempts for 47%.

The Warriors hit 14 free throws, and Madison 18.

Trojan Sam Byrd was the only player to foul out, in overtime. Madison committed 16 fouls and Granite City 17.

The Warriors were out-rebounded 34-28, with Byrd, a Madison sophomore, grabbing 15.

Ripka was high point man for the Warriors with 32, and Joe Wallace hit 65% of his field goals in 13 attempts.

Vrenick made 16 for GCHS, Bob Wiggins 12, Rick Prehn 6, and Kevin Dyer 4.

The Trojans had a well-balanced scoring attack with Ed Chandler leading the team with 18 points. Terrance Young and Byrd each had 16, Emory Wilson 11, and Kevin Boyd 7.

"I want to give Madison all the credit in the world, we did expect a good game the first half, and ended up with a really great game," Warrior Coach Don Deterding commented.

"We played better at Madison than we did at Pontiac. Wiggins' overall play was exceptional, and Wallace kept us in the game with two crucial field goals. Young Vrenick continues to amaze me. His defensive play and rebounding are great. The only problem Vrenick had was making his free throws. He only hit two out of nine."

Graham Comments Madison Coach Larry Graham remarked, "The team worked better together against Granite than at any other time this season. They were passing the ball around in an effort to find the best shot and it paid off. We're all unhappy with the loss, but at the same time very proud of the performance the whole team gave."

The Trojans are now 2-4 and will host Dupo at 8:15 p.m. Friday.

The Warriors are 7-3 overall and 2-2 in the Southwestern Conference. Alton will come to GCHS for a crucial conference game which the Warriors must win to stay alive in league play. Alton has a conference record of 4-0.

The Madison junior varsity came out on top Tuesday defeating the Warriors 74-70.

Cougar Cagers to Open New Year--Quincy Here

Southern Illinois University-Southwestern's basketball team, down 6-7 for the season, will resume its quest for its first victory of the season Saturday night when Quincy College comes calling at the Edwardsville High School gym. Game time is 8 p.m.

Despite the slow start, Coach Jim Dudley of SIU-SW feels that his Cougar cagers will still finish with a winning season. Dudley, in his second season as head coach, isn't downhearted with the season results to date. "In losing to such national powers as Eastern Michigan, Louisiana Tech and Louisiana State University, New Orleans, I feel that my players gained valuable experience which should help us this month and in February," Dudley says.

Dudley's leadoff season of 1971 was the first winning campaign ever posted by an SIU-SW basketball team. Five of the Cougars' season losses this season were suffered on the road.

Saturday's foe, the Quincy College Hawks, are coached by John Orthwein, who has compiled a 186-123 record in 11 seasons. The game will be another tough test for the Cougars. Quincy is currently 4-5, with three of the Hawks' defeats coming on a swing through California early in December. They lost to the University of California, Riverside, 77-89; to Pepperdine University, 83-86, and Loyola of Los Angeles, 71-106.

Good, Bad News
Dudley got some good and bad news with the resumption of school this week. Lost for the season because of ineptitude are junior forward James Mackey and freshman Terry Hamner. Back on the squad is guard-forward senior Otis Ward.

Johnson, a clever ball-handler and the man who brings the Cougars down court for the Cougars, has looked very good as have Boudier and Bloemer. Boudier seemed to find himself in the Cougars' game against Louisiana State University when he led SIU-SW in scoring with 17 points.

Down by 18 points at the half at New Orleans, it was Boudier who sparked the Cougars' drive which pulled within nine points of the Privateers. "Boudier realized that he is as good as any we've played against and suddenly he began performing with confidence," Dudley says.

The 6-5 Sam Holmes, a junior college transfer from Wyoming, has shown flashes, too, of coming around and should help more when he learns Dudley's system. Roy Witholt, the 6-4 junior from Cobden is the Cougars' spot player with Dudley calling on him when a regular three.

Two out-of-state freshmen, Terry Fraley of Ashland, Ky., and Butch Perrie of Highland, Ind., have come off the bench in impressive fashion. Fraley has started in the Cougars' last two games.

In Saturday's game, Quincy College's scoring duties will be carried mainly by Dave Rothery, a senior guard from St. Louis McBride High. Rothery is averaging 17.7 points a game. Another St. Louisan, John Edwards, a senior guard from St. Louis, is averaging 10.0 points a game. Mike Carr, a forward who played his prep basketball at Augustinian, is the Hawks' best rebounder. He's 6-5.

The Cougars will get a chance to avenge one of their early losses, a 89-90 defeat to Louisiana College on Monday at the Edwardsville High gym. Southwest Baptist College team of Bolivar, Mo., will be their guests Wednesday. Southwest, with a three-man spot line averaging 60.0, including 7-2 Mike Carr, is believed to be one of the nation's tallest teams.

Honor Jones, Myers at Auto Champion Banquet

the Allied Auto Racing Association, Dean Roper and Ken Schrader of Lake Hill Speedway, Bobby Jones and Bill Myers of Tri-City Speedway, Roy Hibbard of the Capital Racing Association, Bill Faust of the Southwestern Stock Car Association, Jim Boehm and Mack Yates of the Sports Car Club of America, Mike Hill of the St. Louis Auto Racing Association, and Bud Voris of Brownstown Speedway.

Munich Bracing for Summer Olympic Rush

By STUART GOLDSCHEN
Capley News Service

MUNICH — As construction here on facilities for the 1972 Summer Olympic Games enters its final phase, Munich's citizens are taking a close look at what lies ahead, and not everyone likes what they see.

The skeletal construction on the $500 million building project has been completed, and the finishing work is expected to be done ahead of schedule in January, according to Hans-Jorg Maus of the Olympic Organization Committee. The Olympics begin Aug. 26 and end Sept. 10.

Munich's city and Olympic officials have distributed enthusiastic advertising for the 20th Olympiad throughout the world, but it has not impressed everyone here. The prospect of an expected two or three million visitors squeezing into an already tightly packed city of 1.3 million is even frightening to some.

"I don't know what's going to happen," lamented Ernst Appeltauer, 62, a surveyor. "During busy hours, the streets are so full that we can't even get in now, let alone with a hoard of Olympic tourists. The traffic is going to break down completely."

New Subway, Railway
The city expects to handle traffic in and around Munich with a new subway and suburban transit railway, and existing tramway and road networks. The combined system will handle 100,000 persons per hour in either direction.

"We intend to encourage people not to drive in the city but to use public transportation," Maus said. "We expect 200,000 persons a day at the Olympics, and I don't know a city in the world that can handle that amount of traffic."

The people themselves, however, will have to be accommodated, and Munich's are bringing at the thought.

"They feel pressure," said a city official. "They are not used to a critical day-to-day housing shortage, an annual population increase of 20,000 to 30,000, and the dubious status of being West Germany's fastest-growing city."

The Olympic Committee frankly admits that the demand for beds exceeds the supply in the city, but it said that an appeal for private quarters and dormitory accommodations is being made in the surrounding Bavarian region. Maus said a combination of hotels, pensions, private homes and camping grounds will provide 130,000 beds. He did not explain how the additional 70,000 expected daily visitors will be housed.

Disruptive Effects
Residents here are also complaining about the disruptive effects of a seemingly never-ending urban development boom, a factor only intensified by the city's preparations for the Olympics. Construction, repair, remodeling and restoration seem to have become a way of life in Munich, and 108,000 foreign workers are needed to keep up the pace.

"Munich may be more important now, but it is not beautiful anymore," a middle-aged native said. "Everywhere you go the streets are being torn up and some kind of construction is going on. The city is no longer pleasant or friendly. It has become a Chicago."

Two principal city projects are the subway line and a portion of the suburban transit railway. Construction on the first nine-mile line of the city subway began in February 1968, and is expected to be completed soon at a cost of $208 million. A 2½-mile branch line, costing $31 million, is being built to carry traffic directly to the Olympic grounds.

Fast City Service
The suburban transit system is a federal construction project designed to provide faster city service and connection to Munich for all localities within a mile radius. When it is completed early this year, 13 rail lines converge on the center of the city from the environs, and special trains will be ready to service the Olympic grounds every three to 10 minutes.

The Olympic grounds are the pinnacle of Munich's present construction efforts. The former square-mile meadow 2½ miles from the center of town looks like a modern city in itself. It is already an impressive tourist attraction, drawing travelers and technicians alike from around the world.

To many residents here, however, it is only a preview of the coming attractions of Frankenstein, and many are planning a boycott.

"I'm going to rent my room and get out of town," a young university student said. "It's madness."

15 Talented Teenagers to Perform In Jaycee Contest Program Friday

Fifteen talented young people are expected to give the judges a difficult time in determining the winners of the Granite City Jaycees' first "Teen Talent Contest," set for 7:30 p.m. Friday in the YMCA gymnasium.

"We have found some very talented teenagers in the community whose performances during auditions promise to offer the patrons a colorful show," Dennis Joyce, Jaycee project chairman, said today.

Talents range from guitarists to an organist and drummer and from baton twirling to acrobatic dancing, the official said. Each will perform a 2-to-10 minute segment, he explained.

Eight girls and seven boys will compete in the talent contest, including six young people who are 16 years old. Four contestants are 14 and one is a 15-year-old. The remaining four are 17 and 18, Joyce reported.

The public is invited to view the contest-show. Tickets, costing $1.25 each, are available from many area merchants or may be purchased at the door immediately before showtime.

Prizes for Winners

U. S. Savings Bonds of $100, $75 and $50 will be awarded the top three contestants, the chairman announced. Prizes also will be presented those in attendance.

Youthful artists who will present their talent in Friday's competition are:

Deanna Blaylock, 14, of 2513 Pine St., who will sing, "He Cared That Much For Me"; and play a flute solo; Maria Dean, 14, of 2232 State St., baton twirling routine; Perry Dillard, 17, of 2001 Lindell Blvd., and Tom Parks, 18, of 2018 Center St., vocal and guitar numbers.

Denny Hanaberger, 16, of 2008 Fortune Drive, and Ray Stach, 18, of 3029 Iowa St., vocal, banjo and guitar selections; Alicia Hendrickson, 16, of 2123

Gillespie St., who will sing, "I'll Never Fall in Love Again"; "Sound of Music" and "Our Heavenly Father," a number she wrote and composed herself.

Rich Kagy, 17, of 4054 Stearns Ave., drum artist; Michael Kelly, 14, of 2839 Grand Ave., guitarist and vocalist, who will sing "Born Free"; Jeff Morton, 16, of 2200 Iowa St., vocalist, singing "It" and "Love Story."

Paula and Allan Schuler, 15 and 14, respectively, of 327 Benton St., pianist, who will present two selections, "Ezra's Lullaby" and "Born Free"; Jeff Morton, 16, of 2200 Iowa St., vocalist, singing "It" and "Love Story."

Paula and Allan Schuler, 15 and 14, respectively, of 327 Benton St., pianist, who will present two selections, "Ezra's Lullaby" and "Born Free"; Jeff Morton, 16, of 2200 Iowa St., vocalist, singing "It" and "Love Story."

Three Boys Expelled for Setting Fire at Prather

Three boys were expelled from school until the end of the school year by the Granite City Board of Education because of a fire they set on Dec. 20 at Prather Junior High School.

The boys, eighth and ninth graders at Prather, appeared with their parents at a closed hearing conducted by the board during its regular meeting Monday night.

Because of extenuating circumstances of each boy, the board decided to review the expulsion no later than Feb. 28 for purposes of reinstatement, depending upon the subsequent behavior of the youths.

The fire was started during evening hours in a piano in the vocal music room. Teachers were ripped from the walls, placed in the piano and ignited with a match, according to police and school authorities.

Total amount of the loss was estimated at $1,200, including about $600 to the piano and about $600 to floor tiles, the walls and two desks.

Meanwhile, the boys face criminal action in Juvenile Court on charges of criminal damage to property.

It was expected that the boys would be placed under the jurisdiction of Coordinated Youth Services during regular school hours to continue their studies with the aid of volunteer tutors.

Other Board Business

In other business the board approved purchase of a piano from the Johnson Music Store at a cost of $638.

Approved application to Internal Revenue Service for retroactive pay for employees who had their wages controlled by federal regulations of Aug. 14, 1971.

Made uniform its sick leave policy to provide all employees with up to 10 days retroactive to last July 1.

Granted a leave of absence to Mrs. Jane Webb, speech correctionist at Logan and Nameoki Schools, effective April 7.

Employed Mrs. Barbara J. Badgett, 24, of 4048 Gaslight, as a half-day kindergarten teacher at Mitchell School. She holds a bachelor's degree from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, and has one year experience.

Transferred Mrs. Joyce Sullivan from a part-time kindergarten teacher at Mitchell School to a full-time teacher at Nameoki School.

Authorized filing a claim under Public Law 874 for federal unemployment insurance benefits for 679 claimable pupils, the district expects about $116,198. It compares to last year's claim of 1,013 pupils for payment of $176,236. Closing of the Granite City Army Depot and failure of Congress to fully fund the program were given as reasons for the decrease.

Approved a request of Cub Pack 46 to use the Coolidge Junior High School Cafeteria for a Blue and Gold potluck dinner on Feb. 22.

Approved educational fund bills of $37,176, bond and interest payments of $17,971 and travel allowances of $276.

The meeting and hearing were conducted by Montezuma Worthen in the absence of Dr. Macios, board president.

Title I Advisory Council to Meet

Sister Bernadette, principal of St. Mary's school in Madison and newly-elected executive secretary of the Title I Parents Advisory Council of Madison schools, has announced the group will hold its first meeting of the new year at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 12, in the Wensel L. Brown building, 1707 Fourth St., Madison.

"The Council will meet regularly the second Wednesday of each month in the Brown building. We are trying to assist the Title I program in an advisory capacity. Any student who is a year or more behind in reading or arithmetic is eligible for Title I remedial assistance," Sister Bernadette said.

Treasurer to File 30 Suits for Sewer Fees

Paul Rutledge, Granite City treasurer, announced today that his office is preparing 30 suits to be filed against Granite City sewer users who have not paid delinquent sewer rental bills.

Rutledge said final notices were sent to 47 residents several weeks ago and that since that time 17 have brought their sewer accounts up to date.

Those who do not settle their delinquent accounts by early next week will be named in suits filed in claims court, Rutledge said. Delinquent amounts vary, ranging upward to $400, he said.

Views of Top Events in the Quad-City Area During 1971

FIREMEN RISKED THEIR LIVES to extinguish a blazing gasoline truck which was struck by a train at the Route 162 crossing near E. 23rd Street July 2. It was unknown if all of the gasoline compartments had exploded upon impact with the train and additional explosions were feared. The driver, Frank Panyik, 34, of East Alton, was critically burned and died several days later in a St. Louis hospital.

HAIL AND FAREWELL. At 5 p.m. on June 30, the daily tradition of lowering the flag at the Granite City Army Depot had a special significance. It marked the official end of the depot's 28 years of service and the start of its role as a support center for military personnel in the St. Louis metropolitan area as the Granite City Army Installation. Among those present at the depot's final flag lowering was Andy Sgroi, national Amvets bugler (white shirt) who sounded the final taps.

SECONDARY SEWAGE TREATMENT became a major issue during 1971 with a state compliance deadline of Dec. 31, 1973. Ray Haller, vice-president of M.W. Inc., St. Louis engineering firm, standing at maps, outlined preliminary plans to city council members. In foreground are Aldermen Walter Nonn and Thomas Boker. The new system will cost an estimated $15.3 million.

RIVER FESTIVAL A SUCCESS. The Mississippi River Festival on the Southern Illinois University-Southwestern campus attracted record crowds. Financial difficulties jeopardized the opening of the festival but with government aid and private contributions the festival opened on schedule. In this view the hillside surrounding the giant festival tent was jammed to hear Henry Mancini and the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra July 18.

JUBILEE PROMENADE. Granite City's 75th birthday was marked with a week-long Diamond Jubilee Celebration, featuring parades and a continuous program of activities. As part of the festivities, many women dressed in 1896 clothing for the Jubilee Promenade July 30.

ONE SOLUTION to environmental problems was demonstrated by Granite City Steel Co. Nov. 15 when several tons of beer cans were recycled into new steel in the company's basic oxygen furnace. From left are Donald F. Cairns, GC Steel vice-president; Nicholas P. Voeder, chief executive of GC Steel, and Fred Tucker, vice-president of environmental control for National Steel Co. In the foreground is a bale of beer cans ready to be recycled.

NARCOTICS RAIDS here and in Collinsville Feb. 25, led to the arrest of 28 youths on drug charges. The Illinois Bureau of Investigation conducted the raids with the assistance of the Granite City and Madison police departments and the Madison County Sheriff's Department. Here an FBI agent removes handcuffs from a prisoner at the Granite City Police Station as Granite City Chief of Police Ronald Vizeer watches.

NEW AIRPORT IN ILLINOIS was the proposal of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority after exhaustive engineering and environmental studies. On May 5, John Robson, right, special counsel on transportation to Governor Richard B. Ogilvie, announced a site between Columbia and Waterloo in Illinois was superior to any Missouri location for a second major St. Louis airport as Arven H. Saunders, left, executive director of the authority, and Robert B. Lamkin, center, authority chairman, prepared to answer questions.

12TH STREET EXTENSION across State Street into West Madison was proposed in January. The plan calls for a roadway to cross the Illinois Terminal Railroad tracks to a point between the former Phelps-Dodge Aluminum plant on the left and the General Steel Industries property on the right.

CAHOKIA MOUNDS PARK EXPANSION was discussed at a meeting of archeologists and legislators March 8, the kickoff of a drive to obtain funds for the purchase of approximately 500 acres of land which once was a part of the Indian city of Cahokia. The state government later approved $750,000 for the plan. The park will adjoin the proposed Horseshoe Lake state park. From left are State Senator Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville), Nelson Reed, St. Louis archeologist, and State Representative Kenneth Hall (D-East St. Louis).

Price Index Shows Progress In Fight Against Inflation

The Consumer Price Index rose 0.2 in November, the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported this week. Most of the increase was due to higher property taxes and higher prices for fresh vegetables, homes and some women's clothing, moderated by lower prices for used cars and gasoline.

The November index was 122.6 (1967 equals 100), or 3 1/2% above a year ago.

The November CPI reflects the refund required by the Revenue Act of 1971 of excise tax on new cars purchased by consumers in November. Since the refund is retroactive to August 1971, indexes for August, September and October have been recalculated.

The recomputation reduces previously published indexes to the levels at which they would have been if the tax had not been paid at the time of purchase, and alters some percentage changes previously reported.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the increase in the November index was 0.2%. During the August-November period, which corresponds roughly to the period covered by Phase I of the Economic Stabilization Program, the CPI increased at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.7%, the smallest rise for a three-month period since January 1967.

The August-November change of 1.7 compares with a 4.1 annual rate of advance during the six months ending in August. All three major components of the index—food, commodities other than food and services—contributed to the price slowdown.

In November, the food price index rose 0.7%, after seasonal adjustment, following no change in October and a decline in September. The index of non-food commodities was unchanged for the third consecutive month.

The index for service charges rose 0.3%, compared with increases of 0.5 and 0.6 in the four months prior to the wage-price freeze.

The October to November change reflects, for the most part, changes in prices collected before Aug. 15 and after Nov. 13.

The November index also includes price changes for items exempt from the freeze, such as raw foods, or those subject to special regulations which permit increases under certain conditions.

The index for food purchased in grocery stores rose 0.1% in November instead of declining sharply as it usually does at this time of year. The change in the food at home index reflects changes in prices from the first week in October to the first week in November.

Fresh vegetable prices rose more than they usually do in November due to lower production of fall crops.

Prices of pork, still averaging below year-earlier levels, rose contraseasonally. Declines in beef, fresh fruit and egg prices were less than usual.

Granite City PRESS-RECORD
Page 12 Thurs., Jan. 6, 1972

On the other hand, the price index for cereals and bakery products declined.

The index of restaurant meals and snacks, the other major component of the food price index, rose 0.2%, the smallest increase of the year.

The index for nonfood commodities edged up seasonally in November. The new car price index went up 0.5%, less than it usually does in November.

The refund of the excise tax on new cars did not affect changes from October to November because the indexes in both months were reduced by the same amount.

The index for apparel commodities rose seasonally as prices of fall and winter clothing items were collected for the first time this season in some areas. Prices also rose for homes and a few other commodities.

The effects of these increases were just about offset by large price declines for gasoline and used cars and small price decreases for some household supplies, toilet goods and recreation type items.

About three-fourths of the rise in the index for services was due to higher charges for household services. Property taxes as well as water and sewer rates advanced.

Gas rates increased sharply due to the regular change to winter rates in some areas, but electricity rates declined slightly and telephone charges were unchanged. Mortgage interest costs rose because of higher house prices; mortgage interest rates declined for the first time since June.

The rate of increase in the index for medical care services was 0.1%, the smallest increase in six years except for the few months in which the regular annual adjustment to health insurance was made.

Impact of Wage-Price Freeze

The October-to-November change reflects for the most part changes in prices collected during the wage-price freeze.

About half of the 0.2% increase in the November CPI was due to price changes in items exempt from Phase I of the Economic Stabilization Program.

The 0.1% increase in the November CPI after removal of the effects of these exempted items, is less than the comparable increases in the September and October indexes.

Both increases and decreases entered into the net 0.1% November change in the items not specifically exempt from the freeze.

The increase reflects higher prices for houses, apparel commodities, residential gas and a few other items.

These were partially offset by decreases in other components including used cars, gasoline and grocery store food not specifically exempt from the freeze. Higher apparel prices reflected in large part the first pricing of fall and winter seasonal items in some areas and returns from sale prices for some year-round items. Residential gas bills also went up, reflecting the change from summer to winter rates.

The above analysis is based on contributions to the change between October and November of individual index components weighted by their relative importance in the CPI market basket. In the same manner as the previous month, the Bureau of Labor Statistics carried out a special analysis of the 120,000 individual price comparisons used in the November index.

Analysis of the monthly price comparisons, which account for about 80% or 98,000 individual quotations, indicates that 79% did not change between October and November, 9% decreased and 11% increased. These figures reflect much the same pattern as the earlier month, except for services—which had fewer decreases and more price increases.

The November index also in-

Administrative, Ceremonial Duties Keep Governor Busy

(Copley News Service)

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie spends about one-fourth of his time on "public relations" matters, a scholarly study of his work schedule and the rest on important responsibilities and out-of-state travel.

The management function required to operate a government, policy coordination between agencies and gubernatorial relations with departmental agencies.

Michaelson notes that Ogilvie's having spent more than 25% of his time on public relations is comparable to that experienced by 25 governors included in another study.

"It may be that Ogilvie's public relations activities are somewhat less substantial than those of governors who have a lieutenant governor of the same political party," speculates Michaelson.

"Because Ogilvie did not have a lieutenant governor, he was obliged to accept numerous invitations for dinner speeches, receptions and the like which might otherwise have been handled by a Republican lieutenant governor."

By breaking down the governor's public relations time, Michaelson discovered that 18 hours (27% of the 66 hours) was spent at meetings in 17 Illinois communities, and 17 hours (25%) at dinners and luncheons.

Eleven hours (16%) were spent at ceremonial events such as groundbreakings. The rest of the time involved press interviews, photo sessions, receptions, television appearances and press conferences.

The 19% allocation to management of state government included 30 hours (45% of management time) meeting with personal staff, 14 hours (29%) meeting with departmental officials and the remaining 14 hours in budget sessions and cabinet meetings.

The remaining one-third of the month's schedule involved intra and interstate travel.

Of 251 hours, Ogilvie spent 67 (27% of his time) on public relations; 48 hours (19%) on management of state government;

Detailed View of Illinois Crime to Be Made Available

Caplay News Service

Springfield—Starting this month, Illinois law enforcement officials for the first time will have a comprehensive picture of crime in the state.

As of the first of this year, each of the more than 900 law enforcement agencies in the state are required by law to submit monthly reports on all crimes, including traffic offenses, to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

The commission will compile data from the reports by computer and will issue quarterly findings, as well as a complete yearly report which will be available just after the year ends.

Until the present law went into effect, only about 270 agencies in the state, about one-third of the total, reported regularly on their crime statistics. They filed the reports with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which in turn compiled findings on crime in Illinois.

Because of the limited number of reporting agencies, and because the FBI lumped some categories together to conform to federal rather than specific state laws, the reports were not felt to accurately reflect some of the law enforcement problems and procedures in Illinois.

One more yearly report, based on FBI figures, will be released by the Law Enforcement Commission. The first comprehensive report based on the new uniform crime reporting procedures is due to be released early in 1973.

Since only Illinois crime statistics will be covered under the new program, and the uniform reports are geared to Illinois laws, the computerized findings are expected to give, for the first time, an accurate summation of crimes in Illinois.

Van Wyck Retires as Ill. Power Chairman

Allen Van Wyck retired Dec. 31 as chairman of the board of directors of Illinois Power Co., the company announced this week. He served as the utility's president from 1940 to 1968.

Wendell J. Kelley, who has been president of the combination electric and gas firm since 1968, announced the Van Wyck retirement.

"Mr. Van Wyck is known throughout the nation for his contributions to the utility industry," Kelley said. "We at Illinois Power are particularly aware of his abilities as an organizer and executive. Few men in business have put together a company the way Mr. Van Wyck put together and built Illinois Power."

Illinois Power Co. evolved from the 1923 consolidation of 37 small Illinois utilities which became Illinois Power and Light Corp. This company, in turn, became a part of a large network of utilities under the North American Light & Power Co.

In 1933, Allen Van Wyck left the New York law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell to become vice-president of North American Light & Power and all its operating subsidiaries, including Illinois Power and Light Corp.

Because of the addition of some Iowa properties, the company's name became, in 1937, Illinois-Iowa Power Co. In 1940, Van Wyck was elected president of the North American Light & Power Co. and of Illinois-Iowa Power Co.

Two years later, he resigned as president of North American Light & Power Co. to devote full time to Illinois-Iowa Power. In 1943, when the Iowa properties were sold, the company became Illinois Power Co.

Van Wyck, born Sept. 21, 1896, in Jersey City, attended schools in Ridgefield Park, N. J., and several preparatory schools, graduating from Phillips Exeter Academy at Exeter, N. H., in 1915.

He entered Princeton University, leaving there in the spring of 1917 to enter the U. S. Army as a second lieutenant in the infantry.

Following military service—most of it in France—he attended the law school of Columbia University, New York, and graduated in the class of 1922. He went to work for the New York law firm.

With the law firm, Van Wyck worked principally on problems of financing, both in the U. S. and in Germany where, in the late 1920s, he was concerned with purchases of German and Polish companies by investment bankers.

It was also with Sullivan and Cromwell that he first became familiar with utility companies while working in connection with the sale of securities of subsidiary companies of The North American Co.

The North American Co. held stock in North American Light & Power Co., which held stock in Illinois Power and Light Corp. which, in turn, had its own subsidiaries—Des Moines Electric Light Co. and its subsidiary, Iowa Power and Light Co., plus Illinois Terminal Railroad Co. and The Central Terminal Co.

When Van Wyck first became active in management of what is now Illinois Power Co., in 1933, gross earnings were $26.2 million. These compare with $230.4 million in 1970.

From 1935 to 1940, Van Wyck also was a director and a member of the executive committee of the Potomac Electric Power Co., a vice-president of Union Electric Co., Wisconsin Electric Power Co. and Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., and a director and member of the executive committee of Northern Natural Gas Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Wyck are building a new home in Tulsa, Okla., where Mrs. Van Wyck practiced law from 1928 to 1938 after receiving her bachelor's degree at the University of Iowa and her law degree from Yale University.

Mathis Vote to Be a Test Of Anti-Ogilvie Sentiment

By KEN WATSON
 Copy City News Service

Springfield — How about that other political race?

So far, Statehouse attention has been focused on the Democratic primary fight for governor between Lt. Gov. Paul Simon and walking Dan Walker, independent Chicago attorney.

Virtually overlooked up to now is the fact that there is a Republican primary contest for governor, also, with incumbent Richard B. Ogilvie facing opposition from a Peoria doctor, Dr. John Mathis.

It has been recognized that Simon, who is the slated candidate and backed by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's powerful machine, must win big over Walker or see his now bright prospects for victory in November somewhat dimmed.

By the same token, Ogilvie must roll up a huge plurality over Mathis or see another big cloud of defeatism descend on his supporters, who are now becoming cautiously hopeful of his reelection.

As in the case of Walker against Simon, no one beneath the Capitol Dome gives Mathis any chance of beating Ogilvie. But there is some concern among Ogilvie loyalists that the doctor could attract an embarrassingly high vote.

Voters are often unpredictable, even in a primary. Despite strenuous and generally effective efforts — from the White House on down — to fashion party unity and rally support behind the governor, there remains some anti-Ogilvie sentiment scattered around the state.

Many Republicans are still wary that Illinois received its first income tax under a Republican governor.

Downstate, there lingers some traditional resentment against a Chicagoan as governor — and a feeling that the 1972 slate appears top-heavy with GOP candidates from the metropolis.

There are always some grass-roots party workers unhappy about patronage matters. Despite all the road-building that is taking place under Gov. Ogilvie, voters in some areas may feel their own is not benefiting as well as those elsewhere.

Any governor is bound to make a certain amount of people angry in four years.

In these times, when conducting state affairs is more difficult than perhaps ever before, Ogilvie has had to make many tough decisions — few of which could remotely be expected to please everyone.

It is agreed at the Statehouse that what votes Mathis does receive will be "anti" ones. He is about as unknown as one can be, politically speaking, and would not be expected to attract any votes on his own qualifications for the office, however numerous they may be.

How many Mathis votes would it take to cause trouble for Ogilvie?

Anything over 100,000 would be an embarrassment. About 150,000 would be disturbing. And if Mathis were to go over the 200,000 mark, Ogilvie would have another serious problem for the fall showdown.

One had to go back to 1955 to find a situation anywhere comparable to that involving Ogilvie this year. Then, Gov. William G. Stratton was completing his first term, his popularity somewhat diminished by the fallout from the state auditor office scandal.

There were four opponents in the primary, the only serious one being the late Warren E. Wright, then state treasurer and usually a strong vote-getter.

Wright polled 148,194 votes to 369,716 for Stratton, who went on to win re-election by a scant 36,877 votes in the fall.

1971 Rainfall Sets Record Low--Only 27.05 Inches

Despite heavy rains in December, 1971 was the driest year on record in the Quad-City area. Rainfall during 1971 totaled 27.05 inches, breaking the previous record low of 27.59 inches set in 1963.

In December was the wettest month in two and one-half years. The 6.24 inches of rain which fell here last month was the highest total since 8.30 inches of rain fell here in July 1968.

times greater than the normal rainfall of 1.97 inches for December.

The year was marked by only four months in which rainfall exceeded the normal fall. These included December, May, June and July. In December, the 4.90 inches fell here; February, in which 3.65 inches fell; and September, with 3.27 inches of rain recorded.

The driest month of the year was August with only .17 of an inch of rain, followed by January with .04 of an inch.

Six Independents File in County Board Election

The Quad-City and Madison County election of new county board members this year has developed, primarily, a series of Democratic races to day — at least so far as the primary election is concerned. Following completion of the independent candidates in the office of County Clerk Eulalia Hatz at Edwardsville.

The filing period for independent candidates ended at 5 p.m. Monday with only six candidates submitting petitions for a place on the ballot in the general runoff election. Independent candidates are not subject to primary voting and for that reason a separate filing period was required. Party candidates filed their petitions during a December filing period.

Among independent candidates is James Greer Jr. of Mitchell, an 18-year-old student at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern who will oppose either veteran Supervisor Walter Sparks of Chouteau township or Albert E. Doery of South Ruxana for the county board seat in District 16. That district is made up of Chouteau township precincts 1, 2 and 4 and Nameoki township precinct 3.

Sparks, an incumbent member of the County Board of Supervisors, and Doery, are opponents for the nomination in the Democratic primary. There are no Republican candidates competing in District 16 and any Republican nominated there will have to be chosen by write-in votes.

Other Independents. Other independent candidates include John L. Turner of Hamelet in District 3 where there are two Democratic and one Republican candidates on the primary ballot; Orville R. Oglesby of East Alton in District 11; John W. Boren of Wood River and William K. Sigler of East Alton in District 12; and Odie Nichols of Wood River in District 14.

Independent candidates will have until 5 p.m. tomorrow to withdraw if any of them decide to get out of the race.

Date of the elections still is undecided pending an appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court of an Edwardsville Circuit Court decision setting the county board primary and runoff elections on the same dates as the regular 1972 elections.

The county board primary balloting originally was scheduled under state legislation for Feb. 8, with the runoff to be held April 4. This year's regular elections provide for a March 21 primary and Nov. 7 general election.

The Madison county court ruling was handed down by Circuit Judge Michael Kinney. He held the county board primary also should be held on March 21 and the runoff election Nov. 7 because the difference in the original election schedule would result in a shut-down of registration for a period preceding each election.

Granite City PRESS-RECORD

Sent to High Court
The ruling first was appealed to the Fifth District Appellate Court, but then was directed by that court to the Supreme court to expedite a ruling. Similar confusion prevails in other counties throughout the state and the high court rulings was sought to affix one set of dates on a statewide level.

Democrats will dominate the field in the county board primary with a total of 47 candidates seeking nomination as candidates for the 29 county board seats. In contrast, only 14 Republican candidates have filed.

The Democrats have contents in 19 of the 29 board districts with eight precincts in which one Democratic candidate is unopposed in the primary. There are only two districts, both remote rural areas, in which no Democratic candidate has filed—Districts 4 and 5.

The Republicans, on the other hand, have only three district races among themselves—Districts 1, 4 and 5. There are eight districts in which Republican candidates are unopposed and 18 districts in which no Republican candidates filed.

The county board will be re-organized as a result of the elections into a 28-man board that will replace the present county board of supervisors.

Ebersoldt Blocks Move to Replace Him in Levee Post

A reported move to replace William "Mike" Ebersoldt as Venice as president of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District board of trustees was blocked yesterday when Ebersoldt, who said he was aware of the tactics, boycotted the regular board session. The levee board of trustees customarily reorganizes in the January meeting.

Ebersoldt said he remained at the meeting after he heard repeated reports that Morris Campbell and Lawrence St. Louis trustees and the only other members of the board, planned to elect Tolar as president.

"I have no intentions of seeing levee district policies go back to what they were a few years ago," Ebersoldt said, pointing out that the district ended its 1971 year in the best financial condition than it has in many years.

Since Ebersoldt has been president, new policies of limited payrolls, equipment inventories and other beneficial procedures have been initiated.

Without Ebersoldt in attendance, the board was unable to meet and Tolar and Campbell left the meeting room after waiting for Ebersoldt about half an hour.

Because there are only three members now on the board, all must be present to provide a quorum. The board normally has five members, but it was reduced to three by the death of Joseph Grant of Granite City and George Duff of East St. Louis.

Ebersoldt today denied reports quoting him as saying he intended to boycott further meetings of the board.

"There is no truth to such reports," he said.

"I remained away from yesterday's meeting to forestall the political play that I think would have been damaging to the district's future policies," he added. "But there are financial matters such as the payroll, the budget and the tax levy that will have to be taken care of. I will attend the meetings for these purposes."

Campbell is to go on trial in circuit court at Belleville later this month on their charges. Campbell is alleged to have cashed for his own use checks totaling $40 that were issued to the district as payments for rental of levee district equipment.

Ebersoldt denied also that he said Campbell should resign so that the governor could appoint another member in July 1971.

Traffic Fatalities set Record During 1971; Accidents, Injuries Decline

Traffic fatalities occurring in the Quad-City area, or in accidents involving local residents in other localities, reached an all-time record high during 1971 as 46 persons lost their lives in traffic mishaps. Three died in accidents during December.

The total number of fatalities broke a previous record of 44 deaths set in 1954. While the number of deaths was a record, the number of 1971 accidents and injuries due to traffic mishaps showed a sharp decline below 1970 levels.

A total of 1,895 accidents in which 385 persons were injured was reported here in 1971, compared to 2,362 accidents with 1,262 persons injured in 1970. Last month 58 persons were injured in 176 accidents, well below the 115 persons who were hurt in 182 accidents during December 1970.

June led the year in fatalities with nine. March was next with seven traffic deaths and January was third with six.

A total of 159 accidents in May headed the year's list, followed by the 176 in December. In July, 104 persons were reported injured in accidents; the highest monthly total with 90 persons injured and 54 reported in April.

Housing took the lead in construction activity in Granite City during 1971 as a total of 488 building permits listed values totaling $2,883,652.

Monetary amounts are below the $4,126,840 accumulated in 486 permits in 1970, but that year included a new elementary school and additions to schools.

Homes accounted for 111 of the permits last year with values totaling $1,757,000, an increase over the 99 permits and $1,219,500 total of the previous year.

Most of the homes were erected in the new Lexington subdivision, Wilson Park Estates and at Briarcliff.

During the year permits were issued for 43 additions to homes, $105,627; 71 garages and carports, $94,272; 150 for remodeling and repairs, $176,247; 41 for commercial purposes, $818,300; 12 trailers, $85,950; and 20 miscellaneous, $75,601.

In addition, 49 structures were razed at a cost of $33,522.

Building activity dipped to its lowest ebb in the last half of December as permits were issued to the American National Bank for remodeling at a cost of $53,000; Fannie Willard, 2810 Iowa St., a garage roof, $500; and St. Elizabeth Hospital to raze a 12-room house at 2108-11 Washington Ave. at a cost of $2,000.

Madison Council OK's Shopping Center Plan

A plan to begin studies and obtain land options for a shopping center of two proposed centers in Madison was endorsed by the Madison City Council Tuesday night.

Mayor Mike Sasyk, who proposed the city begin studies of the feasibility of constructing two city-owned shopping centers, one in the downtown Madison area and the other at the end of town.

Cost of the project would be approximately $1,200,000 for both facilities, including construction costs, land acquisition, engineering. It would be financed through revenue bonds.

Mayor Sasyk, who was joined by council members Jerry S. Maers and Frank J. Fijan of the Madison Agency, 418 Madison Ave., Madison, to obtain options on required property, said Maers has been working several months on the project and a large percentage of the property already is under option. The council approved the proposal.

Will Upgrade City

"I think these centers will help upgrade our city," Sasyk said. "I don't want to make sure the city and property will not go down."

The mayor said, "I feel the project is in the best interest of the citizens of Madison and I hope they will support our efforts."

Sasyk said, "I feel if we cannot buy the ground from these people in these areas, we should not push for these centers. I do not want to file law suits against these people to get the property. I just want to be sure of that," the mayor stated.

SIU-SW Budget Cut 13% by Higher Board

The Illinois Board of Higher Education Tuesday approved a $26.7 million operating budget for Southern Illinois University-Southwestern for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The amount is $9.9 million less than that originally requested by the SIU Board of Trustees last September and $4.2 million less than the amount approved by the trustees in November after SIU-SW President John S. Rendleman announced that he had approved a 13 percent reduction in the university's budget. The Board of Higher Education, meeting in Chicago, approved recommendations drafted by its staff, including elimination of the engineering program on the Southwestern campus.

New Applications Must Be Filed for 1972 Exemptions

Elderly homeowners 65 years of age or older who qualify for household exemptions of $1,500 on the assessment of real estate property must file new applications for exemption as soon as possible if they are to take advantage of the tax saving for the 1972 tax year, assessing officials said here today.

The household exemptions have been eliminated for the 1971 tax year under a court ruling, but will be applied for the 1972 year on tax bills payable during the summer of 1973.

James Barton, Granite City township assessor, said that a recent announcement that the exemptions have been cut out for the 1971 year, on bills to be paid this year, caused many persons to assume the exemption program had been dropped entirely.

"This is not the case," Barton said. "The household exemption was eliminated for the 1971 year only. The exemption will be applied for the 1972 year only."

The temperature dipped to a record low 1 above zero on Tuesday and sunny skies brought a little relief yesterday.

Numerous cars were left at home and in parking lots as they failed to start because of the cold. Local garages reported a flood of calls Tuesday and yesterday to aid motorists.

A welcomed warming trend began overnight and is to continue at least through tomorrow. The high temperature today was to be in the 30s and temperatures in the 40s were predicted for tomorrow.

Wayne Scannell, men's clothing buyer for the Glik department stores, will present next week's program on the latest styles in men's wear.

St. Elizabeth Hospital Tightens Visiting Rules

A series of new regulations governing visitors and visiting hours at St. Elizabeth Hospital will go into effect Monday.

Tom Eilerman, St. Elizabeth's assistant administrator, said the new visiting rules have been authorized to respond to regulations established by the Hospital Licensing Act and Requirements for the State of Illinois.

"Proper rest is vital to a patient's recovery," Eilerman said, adding, however, "a limited number of visitors can be helpful and even provide therapy for the patient—our most important person."

General visiting hours at the hospital will be from 1 to 5 p.m. Visiting hours in the Pediatrics Department are to be restricted to two periods daily—from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 6 to 7 p.m.

Intensive Care Unit visiting hours are limited to four 15-minute sessions from 7:30 to 10 a.m., 11 to 11:15 a.m., 4 to 4:15 p.m. and 7 to 7:15 p.m.

Visitors are to be placed in a waiting area outside the maternity floor patient, the rules state.

Everything You Want to Know But Were Afraid to Ask About Dieting

(First of Two Parts)

"You've lost a lot of weight, haven't you? How did you do it?"

The two questions are heard often by someone, such as myself, who has been fortunate enough to lose 50 pounds within a span of less than five months.

Such a loss could not be accomplished, of course, unless excess weight had been accumulated. Nor would there be any point to it.

While doctors agree that constant shifting between weight extremes would not be advisable, most do say that an individual would be healthier, would live longer, and would feel better if he got rid of surplus pounds and then kept them off.

This is why I embarked on a 1,000-calories-a-day diet in August and why I plan to continue to limit my food intake.

Why people get chubby in the first place is not always simple to answer, but the factors undoubtedly include a little something for food, I plead guilty to enjoying a variety of taste treats, but I have found that it is possible to diet without encountering great frustrations or hunger pangs.

I give most of the credit to a diet outlined for me by my physician and by Hospital Food Management, Inc., which manages and operates the food service at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Granite City.

Hospital Food Management's "food exchange" list—the key to its diet recommendations—were adapted by the company from recommendations of the American Dietetic Association.

One of the pitfalls when people try to curb their weight without professional assistance is that they often go too far too fast. This can cause them either to impair their health or to become quickly fed up with the diet attempt and abandon it.

Cardinal rules to keep in mind include:

1. Eat at regular times each day.
2. Do not skip meals.
3. Eat all of the foods allowed on your meal plan each day at the specific meal time.

Foods are divided into groups called exchange lists. Each food within a list contains about the same food value as any other article in the list.

This is a highly important feature—the ability to switch between various items in a group to provide variety and to conform to one's individual preferences.

Unless one can dial in his own particular palate to a degree, he is unlikely to program over an extended period of time.

It also is necessary to adhere to the quantity specified for each serving. If all the right foods are consumed, but in unlimited amounts, no weight loss is going to occur.

The diet I have used expresses measurements in terms of the eight-ounce measuring cup, the standard teaspoon or tablespoon, or in terms of common food portions.

After a few days, little or no measuring needs to be done because the dieter is familiar with the quantities by then.

I think one of the essentials to total honesty with yourself. It is possible to kid yourself about quantities, to guess wrongly and in favor of a bigger meal, but there is no way to kid one's mirror.

One way of preserving an "honest count" in the battle against too-obundant appetites is to note the weight at the start of the diet—238, in my case.

This is the figure that needs to be kept in mind for comparison purposes as the days and weeks go by. It is not how much you lost since yesterday, or since two days ago or four days ago, because these short-term comparisons conveniently ignore the fact that you may have gained several pounds three days ago or five days ago.

I do not contend that it was a sin to have gained three days ago; fluctuations are inevitable. But by constantly going back to the original weight, it is possible to keep one's eye on the real target—net loss, rather than day-to-day losses or gains.

This device also builds confidence. When I had a minus-22 record, I knew it was not as good as the previous day's minus-26, but I was still aware that it was a good achievement—and that I was making reasonably steady, if bumpy, progress.

A specific goal also probably helps. When I had lost the first 30 or 35 pounds, I knew I had made headway, but my goal of weighing in the 180s or 170s kept me on my toes—persisting in the diet rather than leveling off.

For purposes of clarity, I will provide a few details about my diet list. But it should be kept in mind that circumstances and individuals differ, and what was best for me might not be best for others. There is no real substitute for expert help (as contrasted to my amateur standing).

One of the delights of the Hospital Food Management approach to dieting is the inclusion of "free foods," which can be eaten in almost any quantity desired.

These include coffee, tea, clear broth, gelatin, pickles, lemons, cranberries, rhubarb, vinegar, spices, salt, pepper and mustard.

The "A" vegetable list also permits eating as much as desired, if the items are raw, but a cup if the vegetables are cooked.

This category lists broccoli, chlorey, escarole, greens, green red pepper, water chest and tomatoes as all being especially desirable. This is because they contain considerable amounts of Vitamin A.

Eating plenty of tomatoes kept my spirits up during the dark days when I was first getting adjusted to the weight control plan.

The "A" vegetables also include the following which are not offered quite as many vitamins but which are valuable in that they contain only insignificant amounts of carbohydrates or calories:

Asparagus, brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, corn, eggplant, lettuce, mushrooms, okra, radishes, sauerkraut, string beans and summer squash.

String beans or green beans are worth extra attention because they are usually available on even a limited restaurant menu. They are much more of a friend to the dieter than are such items as fried potatoes, french fries, corn or peas.

Corn actually comes under the heading of "bread exchanges" along with potatoes, baked beans, lima beans, sweet potatoes, crackers, biscuits, cornbread, cooked cereal, puff or flake cereals, rice, popcorn, sponge cake, ice cream and spaghetti.

The "B" vegetable list, which has its place in the diet but is a much different element than the "A" vegetable category, consists of carrots and winter squash (both good for Vitamin A) plus beets, onion, green peas, pumpkin, nutmegs and turnips.

Milk exchanges consist of the various kinds of milk and dairy products in quantities and proportions of fat content. One cup of skim milk equals half-cup of evaporated milk, for example.

The cup of skim milk, if substituted for a cup of whole milk, permits two additional "fat exchanges" to be included in the meal.

The fat exchange list consists of butter, margarine, bacon, cream, French dressing, mayonnaise, cream cheese, oil or cooking fat, nuts, olives and avocados.

Last but far from least are the fruit exchanges and the meat exchanges, the latter including eggs, fish, poultry, oysters, sardines, cottage cheese and peanut butter.

Confused? I'll try to clarify it in the next issue with a sample rundown of a day's meals.

Senator Muskie Seems Likely to Capture

Illinois Democratic Presidential Primary

Illinois Democrats voting in the March 21 primary election will be able to choose for U.S. President between former Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota and Senator Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the front-runner who formally announced his candidacy Tuesday night over nationwide television.

Supporters of Senator George S. McGovern of South Dakota also were on the scene of filing petitions for him on the deadline day in Illinois, Monday, but did not do so. They said they were merely getting prepared in case the filings had unexpectedly expanded to include such aspirants as Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City and Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles.

With Muskie's announcement, the field of national Democratic candidates is almost complete, except for Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and possibly Senator Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Also in the presidential race are Senator Vance Hartke of Indiana and Congressman Shirley Chisholm A. New York.

Sens. Bayh and Harris have abandoned their campaigns and Congressman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas got into the race, got out and then said he will make a serious try after his state's delegation nominates him at the Democratic national convention. Governor George Wallace of Alabama is preparing to run both as a Democrat and as an independent.

President Richard M. Nixon faces Republican opposition nationally from Congressman Paul McCloskey of California, on the "left," and Congressman John Ashbrook of Ohio, on the "right." But for all practical purposes, only one obstacle between Mr. Nixon and a second four-year term in the White House is the Democratic nominee.

Senators Muskie and Kennedy, in that order, are the 1968 vice-presidential candidates. Muskie has become the "man to beat." But that year, presidential nominee, former Vice-President Humphrey, still packs much power within the party. And Sen. Kennedy stays well in many polls.

Illinoisans, with ten weeks left to decide, appear ready to give Senator Muskie the nod in their preferential primary—particularly former Senator Eugene McCarthy is ruled of the ballot due to his effort to challenge the state's requirement of a non-Communist loyalty oath by all candidates.

Two pages rather than the usual one were assembled and the pictures show a wide range of occurrences. There were violent deaths, due to traffic and to other causes. Storms and fires plagued Quad-Cityans. Some industrial problems developed or continued, but substantial environmental progress was achieved and Granite City Steel Co. merged with National Steel Corp., becoming third largest in the nation.

Water utility facilities here were expanded and the Quad-Cities role as an international port was bolstered by the docking of "mini ships" beginning in September.

Governmental news included a narcotics raid; phasing out of the Army Depot, which became the Granite City Army Installation; persistent Levee and Sanitary District operating difficulties; efforts to provide secondary sewage treatment and improved drainage; plans for a new Madison-West Madison connecting link at 12th Street; Horseshoe Lake State Park and Cahokia Mound State Park progress; and attempts to establish a major metropolitan airport in Illinois and a big convention and performing arts center at SIU-SW.

The Mississippi River Festival summer concert series experienced its most successful season. Circus fun returned to this community. And the City of Granite City celebrated its 75th anniversary—simultaneously with key milestones for the Granite City Park District, St. Elizabeth Hospital, St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, DeMolay Chapter and other groups.

It was an action-packed year and, aided by Press-Record cameras and engravers, "You were there"—in the front row.

Budget Factor in Public University Student Decline; Higher Private College Enrollment

Comment by Press-Record Springfield bureau—Several trends in Illinois college enrollments have been altered. 1971-72 enrollment figures show, for the first time in four years, enrollment at private colleges and universities in the state has gone up slightly, while enrollment at public senior institutions has declined. And total enrollments at junior and senior institutions slowed substantially.

Total growth at the public and private senior and junior institutions had been predicted at 7%, but the actual rate of growth was only 3.6%, to a total of 488,257 students. Enrollment at senior public universities dropped by 1,556 from 1970-71 to 1971-72.

The biggest decline in admissions was among freshmen and sophomores, where enrollments declined by 4,450. Another shift was registered in the graduate and postgraduate students, which increased by three-tenths per cent, indicating that more students are attending full-time compared to part-time students.

While the increased enrollments in private colleges and universities in Illinois was only four-tenths of a percent, or 548 students, it still marked a reversal of a three-year trend, during which private institutions had lost students, which increased by three-tenths per cent, indicating that more students are attending full-time compared to part-time students.

"At the public junior college level, enrollments have continued to increase, with 17,172 students in 1971-72, up from 16,800 in 1970-71. This growth rate, however, also was less than in the previous three years.

Dr. Fred L. Wellman, executive secretary of the Illinois Junior College Board, predicts that the trend for total headcounts in junior colleges may continue to go up for a while yet before leveling off, as some adult education programs are expanded. However, he says, the growth percentages probably will decline before leveling off occurs. In 1968, public junior college enrollments rose by 18%, while in 1969 they soared by 41.8% and then dropped to a 15% increase in 1970.

The pattern parallels the state's emphasis on formation of junior college districts. This year's slowdown in senior public university enrollment, such as the SIU-SW registration, partly reflects cutsback in state appropriations and program offerings.

DEVELOPMENT EFFORTS BROUGHT IMPROVEMENT

A short time ago the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University granted me a year's leave of absence. While my plans are not fully developed, it is expected that we will do some traveling—both in the United States and abroad.

I hope to be able to do some writing and, in order to keep somewhat in touch with what is going on, I have agreed to do a little consulting work. I want to take this opportunity to tell you how much I have enjoyed our association in the past.

Over 25 years in a variety of positions at the university have been most rewarding, especially in the kind of people it has been my privilege to be associated with.

It is my firm belief that much good has come about through our joint efforts. I wish you a happy holiday season and much success in the coming year.

Labor's Year-Inflation Control, Public Jobs for Veterans, Others

By J. D. HODGSON
U.S. Secretary of Labor

Evidence that President Nixon's wage and price program is working has emerged clearly.

The index for the August-November period increased at an average annual rate of a mere 1.7%.

This 1.7% contrasts with a 4.1% increase rate for the six months prior to August.

President Nixon told the nation on Aug. 15 he wanted inflation brought under control. The nation's producers, sellers, and consumers have shown conclusively by their actions that they support his program for achieving that goal.

The program has been a success. The outlook is a better year for the average consumer.

The President's employment program for veterans and the Public Employment Program (PEP) set a lively pace in 1971 with nearly half-a-million new hires.

PEP established 130,000 transitional jobs in less than five months and had about 100,000 persons at work by year's end, 38,000 of them returning veterans.

The President's call for speed in placing people at work when he signed a $1 billion appropriation for public jobs answered with 85% of the funds being allocated in three months to states and cities for contracts.

This is probably a speed record for starting new government programs.

Three million hires represent a cross-section of the jobs. Thirty-one percent were minority group members, 40% had been out of work 15 weeks or longer, and 39% were disadvantaged.

The sweeping veterans' program, launched in June with a six-front attack, was able to break down present goals and place more than 400,000 Vietnam-era veterans (20 to 29 years old) in jobs, training or schooling in six months.

Other highlights of the past year follow:

The Department's manpower programs continued their heavy emphasis on serving the poor. Over 80% of the approximately 1.2 million people who signed up for work and training were in the lowest income brackets and were either school dropouts, handicapped, minority members or were otherwise well impeded in the work world.

In 1970, manpower programs served 935,000 young people under 22 years of age, 80,000 more than the previous year.

Manpower programs also served the average working man. Last year, the State Employment Service handled over 10 million applications for work. After offering counseling, testing and labor market information, Employment Services made 3.5 million job placements.

The Employment Service was augmented and speeded up by the operation of 104 Job Banks which compete for job orders from employers and have them available simultaneously at all Employment Service offices in metropolitan areas. It is being expanded into a statewide service as rapidly as possible.

Helping to stabilize the economy and curb the spread of unemployment, the new system of employment insurance paid out nearly $5 billion in benefits to cover seven million workers.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1972, coverage is extended to nearly five million additional workers, bringing the total to more than 83 million. And extended benefits of up to 13 weeks go into effect in all states except Kentucky.

Minority participation in Manpower Administration-funded programs has increased by about 40% this year—rising from 600,000 in 1970 to nearly one million.

The proportion of the 70,000 members of the Federal-State Employment Service who are from minorities has risen from 9,000 to 12,000 over the past year.

Bills have been introduced in both houses of Congress to expand the role of the private pension system.

These proposals would impose standards of fiduciary responsibility on those who manage billions of dollars held in employee benefit funds.

Pension plans would be required to provide reasonable vesting standards, and individuals not covered under group pension plans would be permitted to establish their own plan. Self-employed people would be permitted to build a larger pension system.

The Comprehensive Migrant Manpower program was developed to help in the transition from migrant farm work to stable, year-round employment in non-farm occupations through job training, relocation services, counseling and job placement.

The Philadelphia Plan drive has been maintained; plans providing for affirmative action in the construction industry have been increased.

The Department has served a major role in communication with, and supplying of information to, the parties to disputes—approximately 100,000 disputes of national scope.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration was created, the first national program ensuring safe and healthful working conditions for 57 million workers.

Standards and policies have been developed, staff has been recruited and trained and a sound framework laid for achieving a reduction in deaths, injuries and illnesses.

Secretary's Order No. 4 under Executive Order 11248 was extended to require that federal contractors include in their affirmative action plans, goals and timetables to remove job discrimination based on sex as well as for minority group employees.

In a related action, guidelines were issued to assure that federal contractors and subcontractors do not discriminate on the ground of sex in employment opportunities, wages, hours or other conditions of employment.

Expect More Changes In President's Cabinet

By JAMES CARY
Copley News Service
Washington — President Nixon's Cabinet has been battered and reshaped by many forces, time, a spurring economy, resignations, politics, a major reform—and more changes ahead.

Of the 10 secretaries, one postmaster general and one attorney general he picked three years ago, calling them men with an extra dimension he wanted for the duration, only six are still on the job.

And two of these presumably are on their way out.

One, Attorney General John Mitchell, is expected to step down early in 1972, to take over management of the President's reelection campaign.

The other, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, has repeatedly stated he would remain in the Pentagon job only through the President's first term in office. This would take him through 1972, however.

The other four still on board and seemingly well implanted in their offices are Secretary of State William Rogers, Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George W. Romney and Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe.

Those who have moved on in three cases to other jobs in the administration—are former Secretaries of the Treasury David Kennedy, now a U. S. trade ambassador at large; of Labor George Shultz, now director of the Office of Management and Budget; of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch, now counselor to the President; of Interior Walter Hickel; of Agriculture Clifford Hardin; and former Postmaster General Winton Blount.

Blount, who has resigned, would no longer be in the Cabinet even if he had remained as postmaster general.

Under a major reform that became effective in July, the Post Office Department became the U. S. Postal Service and was removed from the Cabinet.

The new postmaster general, Elmer T. Klassen, who took over Jan. 1, was picked by the corporate board of governors, not by the President. The job is no longer a Cabinet post.

The first to be kicked out of the Nixon Cabinet was the President's close friend and confidant, Robert Finch.

Resent by the many pressures of the mammoth HEW agency, he moved over to the White House staff in June 1970.

Elliot Richardson, a top sub-Cabinet selection as undersecretary of state under Rogers, moved into the HEW job, John Irwin then took over as No. 2 man at State.

The most spectacular of the six Cabinet changes was the selection of former Texas Gov. John Connally to replace David Kennedy as secretary of the treasury.

The choice was widely regarded at first as a highly visible political bid for Texas' big bloc of electoral votes in the 1972 presidential election.

But Connally, despite little experience in banking or monetary matters, quickly became a kingpin in the administration's efforts to turn the skidding economy around and restore the nation's collapsing trade and payments balances.

He has been widely rumored as a possible vice-presidential choice to run with Mr. Nixon on the GOP ticket next year, although he is a lifelong Democrat.

Should he do so, still another vacancy would open in the Cabinet at Treasury.

Almost as spectacular was the sudden ouster of Walter Hickel from Interior and his replacement by former GOP National Chairman Rogers Morton, a Maryland congressman.

Hickel, who had been under attack as too close to powerful oil interests when he entered the Cabinet, proved to be an advocate of conservation and friend of the young.

After a series of conflicts and misuses, he resigned. Morton took over during 1971.

In a much different category was Shultz' move from secretary of labor to become the top man in the President's revamped Office of Management and Budget that replaced the old Budget Bureau.

Very highly regarded by Mr. Nixon, Shultz stepped down from the Cabinet to sub-Cabinet level, with a corresponding drop in pay, at President Nixon's request.

He was replaced at Labor by former Undersecretary James D. Hodgson, whose No. 2 post was filled by Laurence Silbermann.

Clifford Hardin has been the last to leave, resigning to return to academic life.

Earl Butz, a former assistant secretary of agriculture, replaced him after a flurry in Congress over Butz' alleged pro-big corporate farmer views.

At the sub-Cabinet level the changes have not been quite so extensive.

Among the most important was the December 1971 decision of David M. Packard to step out as deputy secretary of defense. A replacement is expected to be selected in January.

Other than that, there has been the move of former Undersecretary of State Richardson to HEW; the shift of Russell E. Train from undersecretary of the Interior to chairman on the Council on Environmental Quality, leaving his No. 2 job vacant; and of Hodgson's step up to secretary of labor.

All this, in effect, makes the Cabinet a team, reshaped and restructured, for the upcoming tests and trials of an expected turbulent political year in 1972.

Many Ways You May Be Illegally Taxed, State Warns

Copley News Service

SPRINGFIELD — You work hard for your money—don't throw it away on illegal taxes.

The Illinois Department of Revenue warns that there are dozens of products and services on which you may be illegally taxed in the state.

John and Sue were proud of their new red car. Then it started making loud knocking sounds. At the garage they learned that it needed a new fan belt and tune-up. When they got the bill John paid it without question because he was so eager to get his car back.

If you're a car owner the story may sound familiar. But did you make John's mistake? Under new consumer protection laws, the 5% state sales tax on materials needed for repairs must be charged on the wholesale cost to the serviceman, not on the retail price.

Ask to see what your serviceman paid wholesale for the materials.

For extensive repairs the difference between wholesale and retail price can be considerable. The law applies only to those materials installed by the serviceman, not on materials bought over the counter.

No Tax on Labor
Repair bills should be divided into separate sections for "parts" and "labor." Make sure you are not paying for labor involved in repair work. This is not taxable under Illinois law.

The next time you receive a bill for automobile repairs or repairs on your washing machine, television or perhaps upholstery work on your furniture—check your bill for possible illegal taxation.

Bea was a widow of welfare with five growing children. She was grateful for the food stamps she could purchase.

Every Saturday Bea presented her food stamps at the grocery checkout counter. The cashier rang up the amount and then told Bea that tax was due on the stamps. Bea paid the tax.

Sadly, Bea and perhaps hundreds like her are being deprived of cash they desperately need by paying tax on food stamps which under state law are not taxable.

Harry was in a hurry so when the hotel clerk gave him his bill he didn't notice that the tax charged was higher than it should have been. The Illinois Department of Revenue has numerous complaints about hotels and motels charging taxes higher than the innkeepers themselves must pay to the state.

Take the time to examine your hotel and motel bills and make sure you are not being taxed illegally.

Papers Not Taxable
On her way home from work Carolyn purchased an evening paper at the drug store. She also bought a magazine and a carton of soda pop. When Carolyn arrived home she glanced at the sales receipt and noticed that she had been charged illegal taxes on her purchases.

Under law, magazines, newspapers and bottle deposits are not taxable.

Be especially careful that you aren't taxed on these items when you purchase them along with groceries.

John and Sue, Bea, Harry and Carolyn are fictitious characters—their plight is fact.

According to the Illinois Department of Revenue thousands of unsuspecting consumers may be spending their hard-earned dollars needlessly on illegal taxation. You could be one of them.

Now under new consumer protection laws you have the right to action against businessmen or merchants who engage in such illegal practices.

Illinois Wards Get Help In Homes Outside State

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service

Springfield — Help is being found outside the boundaries of Illinois for a comparative handful of children, legal wards of the state's department of children and family services, whose special needs are so complex they cannot easily be met within the state.

A spokesman for the department said that presently 633 youngsters out of nearly 16,000 department wards in some kind of placement situation, are in private institutions scattered throughout 19 states. Many of these are in neighboring states including several institutions in Missouri, he said, while others are as far away as Texas.

All the children involved are wards of the department because they are neglected, abused or have no one to care for them, he said, not because they are mentally or physically handicapped. However, it sometimes happens that a child who becomes a department ward also has physical or mental handicaps, he said, creating special problems in finding suitable care for them.

The spokesman said that he would estimate that 85 to 99 per cent of the children now placed out-of-state have been "repeatedly" offered to various institutions in Illinois, only to be turned down because the facility was not equipped to handle them.

Require Intensive Care
Most, he said, require intensive programs of care in one of a small percentage of the total sent to other states which have special programs geared to their particular needs.

Six out of seven department wards are placed in homes or facilities within Illinois, with only a small percentage of the total sent to other states which have special programs geared to their particular needs.

In Illinois presently, 15,925 youngsters are in some sort of placement situation under the guardianship of the Department of Children and Family Services. Included among these are 11,127 in foster family homes, 1,168 in adoptive homes where adoption proceedings have not been finalized, 122 in "working wage homes" where older youngsters live under some supervision though employed, as well as 248 in two state-operated institutions, 210 in private facilities in Illinois, and the 653 outside the state borders.

Illinois presently operates only two institutions under the department for dependent children, both limited by state law to Illinois residents only. One, the Illinois Soldiers' and Sailors' Children's School at Normal, with a capacity a little below 300, is only for dependent children of Illinois war veterans. The other, Southern Illinois Children's Service Center at Hurst in southern Illinois, has a population below 30.

PUNISHMENT FOR MISBEHAVIOR

Parents regularly face the problem of administering punishment for misbehavior. And a good rule to follow is: "Make the punishment fit the crime."

The preschooler who crosses the forbidden street can be confined to the house or yard for a specific time.

The youngster who breaks a rule involving his bicycle, receives a punishment related to the bike—no bicycle riding for a week.

The child who annoys other family members watching television might stay in his room during a favorite program.

Obviously the time period involved should reflect the size and seriousness of the "crime."

The aim of punishment is to enforce discipline by deterring the child who has broken a rule from breaking it again.

In determining suitable punishment, it's important to maintain a feeling of concern toward the offender. If a parent is extremely harsh and disregards the child's feelings, the punishment will not accomplish its purpose.

Although corporal punishment is direct, emphatic and it helps to relieve the feelings of the punisher, it is also an assault—a form of violence. And when a big person strikes a little one, he is usually taking advantage of his superior strength, not his superior wisdom.

However, it is better to slap and be done with it, than to stretch reprisals over a long period.

Bubblemasters Plan Dance, Cleanup Work

A St. Valentine's Day Dance, the 1972 club budget and a fix-up-cleanup project are topics to be discussed by members of the Bubblemasters Scuba Diving Club at a business meeting set for 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Civil Defense Training Center, 1411 Nineteenth St.

Dee Adams, Bubblemasters president, said the diving group's proposed financial plans for the current year will be reviewed and approval of a budget will be sought.

Progress reports will be given on plans for the second annual St. Valentine's Ball, to be sponsored by the Bubblemasters Club on Saturday, Feb. 12. The public event will take place at the Venice-Madison American Legion Hall, 740 Broadway, Venice.

Volunteers from the club are expected to resume a cleanup project started last month in a section of the Granite City CD headquarters utilized by the local divers, Adams said.

Bubblemasters members comprise a volunteer team of qualified diving personnel which works closely with local civil defense officials and area police departments in rescue and recovery missions, the officer explained.

The four day event presented a wide and varied program of lectures, scientific symposiums, panel discussions, as well as student and young artist auditions. Internationally known vocal artists and other prominent persons closely associated to the field of singing were on hand for the annual convention.

Among those presenting concerts were renowned singers Elena Nikolaidi, Betty Allen, Katharine Hansel and Will Parker, the 1970 NATS Artist Award winner.

Ruth and Thomas Martin, widely known for their work in translating opera into English, and Carlisle Floyd, outstanding American opera composer, were present to lend emphasis to the "Singing in English" theme of the meeting.

Those taking part in the scientific symposium heard papers on "Forms in Singing," presented by experts from the Royal Institute of Technology, Stockholm, Sweden, in addition to several specialists on the same subject from American universities.

Sessions included valuable lectures on such wide ranging topics as psychology and singing, sacred and wedding songs and English and American songs. Question-and-answer panel discussions on voice teaching also were conducted.

Mrs. Stevens explained the national local teachers' organization sponsors a special competition annually to select an outstanding young singer ready to embark upon a professional career. The artist award finalists from each region in the country participate in the finals at the convention.

NATS is a professional organization open to all qualified persons teaching voice. Forty chapters throughout the country conduct educational meetings, provide an audition program for students from high school age through 35 years and offer workshops and conventions for professional interchange and growth.

Mrs. Stevens and her husband, City Clerk R. W. Stevens of Granite City, were luncheon guests during the convention of Dr. Walter Allen Sults of Corpus Christi, Tex.

Think Pretty--Exercise Is Normalizer, Says Elaine La Lanne, Wife of Expert

By PEGGY WALKER
Copley News Service

As exercise goes, for most housewives, anyway, it's probably limited to such things as scrubbing out the bathtub, carrying in groceries and maybe a few hi-and-miss television sessions with Jack La Lanne.

For most, that is. Then there's Elaine La Lanne. She exercises a good 20 minutes every day, the right way—starting with sit-ups in bed, then a few leg curls, running in place, fanny firmers and a few stretches for good measure.

When you're married to a physical fitness expert, it's conducive to keeping in shape. And Mrs. La Lanne's tummy-waisted figure is evidence enough she practices what her husband preaches.

"You've got to start young, and keep up exercise, or otherwise sets in," said the attractive blonde.

"You eat every day, sleep every day and you ought to exercise every day."

"Exercise is a body normalizer. It's good for the skin as well as the fat, because it redistributes weight."

Mrs. La Lanne has been married 12 years to her 57-year-old husband, a guru of sorts to scores of faithful housewives who tune into his daily television show with hopes of shaping up via systematic exercise.

"It's true the more you exercise, the more feminine and beautiful you will be," she said. Exercise tones muscles, improves them. Look at a beautiful woman getting into a regular exercise routine.

Her friends tell her she looks better now than she did 20 years ago. But it's not exercise alone. Diet plays an important part in keeping a shape that rivals that of her 20-year-old daughter.

Mrs. La Lanne was fasting on grape juice, she remarked during an interview. "I clean the system out. Beauty starts from within, you know."

One time the La Lannes fasted for two days on watermelon. This time she was sticking to grape juice because, she said, "it's full of energy. It keeps the blood sugar up."

"The fasting is like an internal bath. It helps get the toxins out," explained Mrs. La Lanne, who goes on a liquid two-day diet about once every two months.

Normally she considers breakfast the most important meal of the day, eats a raw egg regularly, blended with a high protein drink and honey for her first meal.

The La Lannes had white flour, white sugar and products made with them, and eat natural foods as much as possible.

"Most women need to learn to undercook their vegetables," Mrs. La Lanne confided. "Too many boil the vitamins away in too much water."

"Jack always says to end up with a healthy sit-up when you pour the water, but what about their bodies?" Mrs. La Lanne has a "magic five" wake-up exercise plan she said was good for beginners.

She suggested doing each exercise five times, resting, then repeating five times.

WINNING STRETCH. Mrs. Jack La Lanne, wife of the television physical fitness personality, demonstrates what she feels is a good over-all conditioning exercise. Hold a heavy weight in both hands. Stretch arms upward over the head, then bring the weight down back between the legs.

1. Sit-ups in bed, to get the circulation going.

2. Leg curls — lie on your back, arms at side, and lift knees to chest while raising the head and tucking the chin into chest.

3. Fanny firmer — lean forward, with hands on bed edge. Lift right leg back as high as possible, at same time lift head high. Repeat with other leg.

4. Run in place.

5. Dynamic stretch — stand with feet apart, lock hands behind back, extend arms out, trying to touch elbows at same time, and bring head back as far as possible. Hold position and lean forward at waist.

Repeat.

The Konzerts, designed for children from 4 through 8 years of age, will be performed at 12:45 p.m. Tuesday, and at 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. on Wednesday and Thursday.

The Orchestra will play Rossini's Overture to "La Gazza Ladra," Haydn's Andante from Symphony No. 84, "Surprise," and Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Paul, a conducting fellow with the Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra during the 1970-71 season, conducted an entire Kinder Konzerts series last year as well as several subscription concerts and a "family" concert. He is a member of the faculty of Webster College and is music director and conductor of the children, including musical Webster Groves Civic Symphony.

The meeting will be held at the VFW Post on Vandall Avenue in Collinsville with Charles Sabo, president, of Granite City, presiding.

Another adult activity of the organization will be a card party at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the home of Julie Hodge, 8 North 15th St., Apt. 4, Belleville.

Jefferson Airplane Has Wings of Sound

By JUDY HUGG
Copy News Service

Buckle your seat belts, folks. It's time for the Jefferson Airplane to take off on the wings of sound once more.

The inventive and exciting Jefferson Airplane, which pioneered pop music's "San Francisco Sound," and introduced the country to "light" shows when it first appeared with the Smothers Brothers, just recently released its first album "Back on their own label Grunt."

This platter, despite the fact that the group has had a superb hit for a long while, has been certified as a Gold Album by the Recording Industry Association of America within a week of its release date.

Perhaps the best way to describe Jefferson Airplane is, well, the Airplane is Gracie Slick, Joey Covington, Jorma Kaukonen, Jack Casady and Paul Kantner with Papa John Casach and Bill Laudner lending a helping hand on several cuts.

Very much the voice of where music is today, the Airplane has its roots firmly implanted in the souls of most rock lovers and although there doesn't seem to be any cut with the potential of "White Rabbit," it is one of their finest all-around efforts yet.

The first side opens with "When The Earth Moves Again," written by Paul and sung by Grace and Paul. It speaks of the changes of ancient times and changes of the future.

"Love to all the people left behind searching out new ground around us—let us care to see the future look in the eyes of your young dance."

ing children—don't be afraid of our ways—when the earth moves again."

Grace Slick wrote and sings "Crazy Miranda," telling of a young lady "...who lives on propaganda—believing everything she reads."

Pretty As You Feel
Joey wrote "Pretty As You Feel" and is joined by Grace in a lovely blend of voices telling how beauty is only skin deep.

The first side closes with an instrumental masterpiece, written by Jorma. "Wild Turkey" takes you away with Papa John and Jorma soaring with the Airplane rockin' and rollin' and reaching new heights of musical magic.

Side two opens with "Lawman," a powerful song featuring Grace in her finest voice. "Never Argue With a German When You're Tired" or "European Song" is written and sung by Grace. The group, playing at their surrealistic finest, uses a Chamberlain to add a variance in sound.

The Chamberlain is an instrument that uses tapes of pre-recorded voices played as an organ. This delight in three-quarter time will remind you of many musical greats, from Wagner to Kurt Weill.

Closing the album and getting you ready to start it all over again is "War Movie," which was written by Paul. Sung by Paul and Grace, it is a war movie of the future.

In 1973 all my people rise from the countryside—no need to hide from the other side—talking of Napoleon in the garden, we will muffle the drums to-morrow morning—roll, roll, roll the rock around—lift the rock out of the ground."

Stretching out musically, mentally, vocally and instrumentally, the package is one of the graphic concepts of the day and is sure to take its place in rock's hall of fame.

However, it's not the last to be heard from the Jefferson Airplane because under their new label, Grunt, all artists will have a say in all aspects of their art. It is an independent record art. It is an inde-

McKendree Offers Aid To Military Personnel

McKendree College at Lebanon is offering a special military scholarship program that will enable all-military personnel, including those at nearby Scott Air Force Base, to complete college courses at McKendree at less cost to them, then at a state university.

Under the program the net tuition and fees paid by the individual for a full year's load at McKendree would be $225.00 compared with $325.00 for two quarters at Southern Illinois University-Springfield.

The saving is made possible through a $30-per-unit scholarship provided by the college trustees to the servicemen. The McKendree tuition and fees for a full course of three or four units (12 to 16 semester hours) is $85. The military pays $85.25 of this amount, leaving them $225.75.

The trustees' scholarship pays $137.50 of this amount, leaving the serviceman $116.25 per term to pay, including fees. If the serviceman takes the courses on the base, fees are waived and the cost is $103.75. A year's program thus costs the average man $225.00 on campus, or $207.50 on base.

A unit at McKendree is equivalent to four semesters at the college. The scholarship program applies to part-time students, cutting the net cost to a serviceman taking one course of four units on campus to $42.50, on base to $30; two units on campus to $72.50, on base $60. Three or four units constitute a full load and carry the same tuition and fees.

Under McKendree's new 4-1-4 calendar, there will be a one-month interim term this month, starting with registration Feb. 3. Students still can enroll in that spring term program.

James Madison Was a Bookworm as Youth

Editor's Note: James Madison, 1751-1836, the Virginian who was master architect in actual drafting of the Constitution. He was also 4th president of the United States. This is another in a series on what famous people were like in their teens.

By BETT ANDERSON
Copy News Service

James Madison was a teenager almost too good to be true. He was a real bookworm and remembered most of what he read. Learning was an adventure to him.

Until he was 13, he never had any teacher except his grandmother. It was hard then to find a proper tutor, one who could teach manners as well as math. The Madisons were southern plantation owners.

To the three R's—reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic—he insisted on adding another R—refinement. James was finally sent to a nearby boarding school.

So far as his teachers were concerned, James was a dreamboat. Too frail to go in for sports or extracurricular fights, he was a quiet, scholarly teenager. Barely five feet six, he knew his own strength—or lack of it. The school bullies let him alone. Sometimes they asked him to solve their arguments, or referee their fights. They knew he was always fair.

In 1768, when James Madison was 18, he entered the College of New Jersey, later known as Princeton College. He rode all the way from his family's Virginia plantation on horseback. He was exhausted when he finally arrived at the three-story building on the small campus.

James was not an instant success at Princeton. Always a loner, he was even more shy among the sophisticated students who paid him little attention. They were all awestruck every morning at 5 by a loud horn. They had prayers and a cold breakfast of oatmeal and bread. There were no organized sports.

James joined a club known as the Whigs which was more or less a debating society. James was not a speaker, and knew it. In a few years James Madison would be helping to draw up the Constitution for the American people to govern themselves by. In a few more years, he would be elected 4th president of the United States.

1971 Year of Growth, Progress in Cahokia Mound Scouting Council

By WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

The year 1971 was one of growth and accomplishment for the Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Membership, advancement, summer camp attendance, and participation in a variety of events showed substantial increases over 1970.

The major problem confronting the Boy Scout Council in 1971, and still a problem according to Merrill Ottwein, council president, is the need to increase income from all sources to keep pace with the needs of the boys in the area.

"The Boy Scout program costs money to function properly, and cost keeps rising in everything," Ottwein said. "It is our intention to make the Boy Scout program available to every boy in the area who wants to belong."

The Cahokia Mound Council encompasses the southern half of Madison county and all of Bond county.

3,719 Scouts Active
The year 1971 ended with 3,719 boys actively participating in the program. This is broken down into 1,983 Cub Scouts, 1,324 Boy Scouts and 412 Explorers.

These membership figures mean that 40.1% of all the boys of Cub Scout age, 8 to 11, in the Council area are active in the Cub program; 25.1% of the boys of Boy Scout age, 11 to 14, and 8% of all boys in the two-county area between 14 and 21 currently are in the Explorer program.

Characters from well-known Disney cartoon films will highlight the "Disney On Parade" show, which has proved a popular favorite the past two years.

Special features will spotlight the "Aristocats," "Mickey Mouse," "Sleeping Beauty" and the Three Caballeros.

Seating in the Arena Circle, which affords patrons an excellent view, will cost $4 for adults and $2.50 for children 16 years and under. An additional $1.15 will be charged for round-trip transportation by chartered bus from Wilson Park to the St. Louis Arena.

Buses will depart from the Wilson Park parking area at 4:30 p.m. the day of the performance, Brown said.

50% of the available boys eligible to attend camp.

The Council Annual recognition dinner was held Feb. 27, 1971, at the GCHS cafeteria with 429 adult scout leaders in attendance.

At that meeting, the coveted Silver Beaver, Scoutings highest local award, was presented to Pete A. Carich of Granite City, Ed Heeren of Edwardsville and Leroy Jones of Vandalia.

Mrs. Alex (Mary) Tarpoif was awarded the Silver Fawn, Given National Recognition.

Two activities of the Council gained national recognition. On July 17 a Project SOAR (Save Our Natural Resources) parade was held. Several area industries and organizations joined the Scouts, and paraded from the Granite City hall to the ice rink at Wilson Park where conservation and ecology-related displays were open to the public. Maurice Dailey, 18, a member of the council activities committee, organized the event.

National recognition was again brought to the local Scout community by the Granite City Optimist club which sponsored a Scout and Buddy campout on Sept. 25, 1971.

This event, similar to a camp-out, was designed to show non-scouts what the scout program is really like.

Nearly 100 new boys joined the Boy Scouts as a direct result of this event. Leo Kozmen, an active Scout and vice-president of the local Optimist Club organized and directed this program.

More Eagle Scouts
Eagle Scouts in the Council increased 28, compared to 18 boys earning the award in 1970. These 28 Eagles were recognized on April 12, 1971, as the G. Rollin Henn class at a special Eagle recognition dinner held in Collinsville.

Despite rain and heavy winds, the Boy Scouts, Cubs and Explorers held a Scout-O-Rama on May 22, 1971, at the ice rink at Wilson Park. Several thousand residents braved the bad weather to see 48 scout units display their talents.

A "School Night for Cubbing" was held throughout the entire council on Sept. 16, and 428 boys joined Cub Scouting.

The Explorer program showed marked membership increase going from 286 at the beginning of 1971, to 412 at the year's end.

An explorer officer planning conference was held March 13 and 14 with 75 young men in attendance who learned ways to improve their local units.

An Explorer auto road rally, over a 100-mile course, attracted 38 participants on Nov. 29.

Relet Mergers
The final major activity of the year took place on Dec. 16, 1971, when the executive board of the Council voted 25-14 to reject a proposed merger with the St. Louis Area Boy Scout Council and three other Illinois Scout council into one council, headquartered in St. Louis.

The board's and its special committee spent nine months during 1971 studying the advantages and disadvantages of the merger, before the final vote was taken.

Council Commissioner G. Rollin Henn said, "I feel that 1972 will be a real great year for Scouting in this council. We made some solid gains this past year. Now that the proposed merger is out of the way the board members will be able to devote their energies more to the council program in this area."

"We intend to organize enough units that every boy in the council can have the fun and training the Boy Scout movement has to offer."

"Camp this coming summer should be the biggest in the history of the Council, and instead of about 4,000 boys in scouting, 1 boy we can increase that number to 5,000 or even 6,000."

Merchants Doing Their Best to Comply With Price Posting Law

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

Most merchants in the Granite City area have completed the confusing and somewhat formidable task of complying with Phase Two price posting regulations, but all share doubts that they have done it right.

Merchants nationwide are required to post publicly the "ceiling prices" of top-selling items in their stores, but under the regulations the prices charged may exceed the ceiling in many instances, thus nullifying the usefulness of the listings, some merchants point out.

In most stores the prices either are posted publicly or signs are posted indicating that ceiling price books have been prepared and either may be inspected, or a customer may fill out an information request form on an item and the store will mail the ceiling price figure to him.

Price May Rise

If, with government permission, the manufacturer has raised the wholesale price of an item, the stores may raise their price on the item by a percentage equal to the wholesale price rise.

Merchants are using several means to determine the ceiling prices on items, but most agree the price charged during Phase One is being used as the ceiling, except when the item was on sale Aug. 14 when the wage-price freeze was imposed.

Stores with sales volumes over $100,000 per year are required to post or list the top 40 highest dollar volume items in each department, or items accounting for 90% of that department's dollar sales, whichever is less. Smaller stores may consider the entire store as one department and post only one listing, according to the guidelines. Failure to comply carries a fine of up to $500 for each violation.

Big Job

The task of compiling data to determine the items to be listed was a formidable one. In the case of Schermer Brothers Market, it is estimated that 300 man-hours were spent in preparing a complete ceiling price list of every item in the store. The list has approximately 5,000 entries.

Some chain stores, including W. T. Grant & Co. in Nameoki Village Shopping Center, and Carps' Department Store, 1305 Nineteenth St., were fortunate in that the home offices prepared general price listings, reducing the task for the stores.

The opposite was true for Gik's Department Store at Bellemore Village Shopping Center, which serves as the main office for the chain's eight stores. The local store prepared price lists for the chain, Joe Gik, owner, commented. He did not specify the number of man hours required for the task but explained, "It was a big job."

Deadline Unclear

The guidelines also were unclear as to the deadline for compliance. Carps' posted their signs Dec. 15, feeling that was the deadline, but most stores waited until Monday before starting the program.

At Bant's Shoes and Men's Furnishings, preparations for their 75th Anniversary celebration were mixed with the task of preparing lists early this week.

"We have continued to maintain our prices at the Aug. 15 level and do not intend to raise any prices unless the wholesalers do," a spokesman said.

At Key Retail Drugs in Gaslight Plaza in Pontoon Beach, Manager Berry Kidder said the law as it applies to pharmacies is ambiguous and he is awaiting word from the Illinois Pharmaceutical Assn. before preparing guidelines in court, and particularly is adverse to the posting of prescription prices, Kidder said.

Hugh Muncy, president of the Illinois Retail Merchants Assn., in Chicago commented this week, "Complying with the ambiguous and often conflicting rules set down by various governmental agencies has not been easy. Many merchants are unsure of what prices must be posted.

"Because a strong and stable economy is so vital to our nation, merchants in Illinois have been doing their best," Muncy added.

$15 Million in Dividends to Be Paid Veterans

Dividends exceeding $15 million will be paid during 1972 to Illinois veterans who hold their government insurance, according to John B. Naser, director of the Chicago regional office of the Veterans Administration.

Naser said that 215,053 World War II and Korean war veterans who retained their National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) will receive $14,258,000 during the year in dividends. Dividends are paid on the date of the anniversary of the policy.

In addition, 7,451 World War I veterans who retained their U. S. Government Life Insurance (USGLI) will receive $1,086,000 in dividends. Naser pointed out insurance varies from $1,000 to $10,000 depending on how much the veteran retained. Dividends are based on the total amount of insurance, but the average for the World War I Illinois veteran will be approximately $146, while the average for Korean and World War II vets will be about $67.

Nationwide $265 million will be paid to 3,965,315 World War and Korean war veterans, and $21 million will be sent to World War I veterans. Nationwide the average for World War I vets is $138, and the dividend average for NSLI holders will be $68.

Girl, 6, Hurt in Fall in Venice

Gayle Johnson, 6, of 1038 Logan St., Venice, was injured as she slipped on ice near a moving car in the 1100 block of Calhoun Street in Venice at 8:35 a.m. Tuesday.

The driver of the car, Derb Lowery, 1120 Calhoun St., Venice, said he thought the car struck the girl but she said the car missed her as she fell, police reported.

She was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where X-rays were taken and she was released. She is the daughter of Mrs. Sharon Johnson.

Most local merchants posted their base or ceiling prices Monday in compliance with Phase Two economic regulations.

Kiwanis Club Hear Of French Drug Traffic

Philip A. Thies, 1st deputy and chairman of the Operation Drug Alert committee of the Granite City Kiwanis Club, spoke to the group Monday night on the illicit drug trade from Marseilles, France, to New York, taken from an article which appeared in the Dec. 20 issue of the Wall Street Journal.

The article read in part as follows:

"Marseilles is an international transit point for narcotics, particularly heroin. Nearly 80% of the heroin and other opiates that find their way onto the American market pass through Marseilles. The opium poppies are grown in Turkey and processed into heroin in about five years."

While the identity of the narcotics dealers are well known to the French authorities (every narcotics case in Marseilles in the past 10 years has involved one or more of the same four families) the French authorities have been singularly unable, or unwilling, to stop the flow of drugs in the port of Marseilles.

Fortunately, there have been some indications that this French tolerance may be declining. Southern France now has about 5,000 addicts, as a result of which the government is beginning to look rather harshly upon the narcotic traffic.

French narcotics agents are being increased in number and the legal penalties are being stiffened. In the meantime, Twain might describe the port of Marseilles, "It's immoral, it's corrupt. It is French!"

Adopt Resolution

At the conclusion of his talk and as a result of this apparent official condoning of the illicit drug traffic, a resolution was passed by the Granite City Kiwanis Board to boycott French goods.

"Perhaps in some small way we can influence the French government to crack down on this drug traffic," Thies said. "If they continue to condone the traffic, because it is lucrative, perhaps we can help make it unattractive.

"Therefore, we urge the complete cooperation of the community in boycotting French-made goods. Perhaps we can get enough attention focused on the problem to encourage French law enforcement. If we stop the traffic in Marseilles, we will not have to stop it in Granite City," the local attorney said.

Progress Made During Year On Allergy-Related Illness

By IRVIN J. POLK, M.D.
Copley News Service

Allergy is always interesting to review. Since the field overlaps and includes many areas of medicine and science, there is much of interest to everyone; 1971 was no exception.

Ecologists, for example, will be interested to note that allergists investigated the enzymes used in household detergents. These enzymes are produced by bacteria or extracted from such common plants as pineapples and figs.

Nevertheless, in many cases, factory workers exposed to such enzymes as part of their work developed shortness of breath wheezing and fatigue.

These symptoms were presumed to be caused by allergy to inhaled enzymes, since they were accompanied by positive skin tests for such enzymes in many cases.

Luckily, so far, no cases of respiratory allergies have been reported resulting from household contact with detergents. But some authors in the field suggest that this might one day become a problem.

One household exposure definitely reported as a cause of asthma is mold which may grow in home humidifiers and air-conditioning units.

Cigarette smoke was again reported in 1971 to be a cause of allergic reactions, both in smokers and in people who share rooms with them.

A disease which made the allergy reports as probably related to allergy problems is seborrheic dermatitis.

This is a skin disease with scaly, red skin eruptions often of the head, neck and shoulders, and quite common in infants and small children.

It was attributed by one author to food allergies.

Another investigator suggested adding color blindness to the list of allergy-caused diseases, since he found definite proof that color blindness was reversible in some patients by removing certain allergy-causing substances from contact with them.

On the opposite side of the ledger, it was noted within the last year that overactivity of the thyroid gland can produce symptoms which are often confused with allergies.

Furthermore, a new disease, alpha-1 antitrypsin deficiency, was described as a cause of obstructive lung disease and emphysema which may mimic asthma.

In the basic science field, studies of antibodies associated with allergies indicate that the antibodies are formed by or localized in specialized cells of the portals of entry into the body.

This may explain why the removal of tonsils often aggravates allergic disease.

But tests with radioactively tagged grass pollen show that even in patients with pollen asthma, the offending pollens never reach the bronchi of the lung—since they are too large in size and are filtered out earlier by the respiratory system.

In 1971 also it was shown that ragweed pollen asthma is not brought on by reaction of the mucous membranes of the nasal passages nor by neurologic reflexes from the nose.

So the possibility remains that asthma is caused by pollen which, when swallowed into the digestive tract and absorbed into the bloodstream, may stimulate the production of antibodies which then circulate to the nose to cause hay fever, or to the chest to cause asthma.

In any case, immunologists are delving into the mysteries of the body which result in allergic disease.

Some advances in the treatment of allergies were reported this year. Disodium cromoglycate, a rather new drug used in inhalation, again proved beneficial in childhood asthma.

Although it is not yet for sale, this new drug seems to work by preventing the release in the lung only of histamine, an important mediator substance in asthma.

An older drug, isoproterenol, again drew attention for treatment of acute asthma in children. This time it was reported useful when given intravenously.

Allergy shots were shown to produce in the body increased amounts of immunoglobulin-E. Such shots were shown definitely to help allergic diseases such as hay fever and asthma even at intervals as long as six weeks between injections.

A short-term, intrapulmonary injection treatment was also proposed which was helpful for specific types of patients.

All in all, in the many areas which contribute to knowledge of allergy, 1971 was a successful year. Here, as elsewhere in medicine, progress is slow but sure.

Economy to Hit Record in 1972; No Superboom

By IRVINE W. REYNOLDS
Copley News Service

Business activity in 1972 will rise to a record peak, but will not achieve the superboom proportions which have been predicted.

This is the consensus of economists at Copley International Corp., after an industry-by-industry study of prevailing trends and business prospects.

The study envisions a gross national product of $1,129 trillion during 1972—a gain of 7.43% as compared to the preceding 12 months.

Unlike 1971, however, a larger proportion of the increase will result from "real growth," rather than from inflation.

"The rate of growth projected in the C. I. C. forecast is well above the long term average of the American economy and appears to be close to the maximum possible without a sharp improvement in business and consumer sentiment," the report noted.

"It is doubtful if a larger gain could be realized, given the other restraints which are so obvious at this time."

The so-called "standard forecast" for 1972—as compiled by the National Association of Business Economists—predicts that GNP will total $1,159 trillion, or 9.4% above the preceding 12 months.

If it is assumed that inflation will slow to an annual rate of approximately 3.5%, then physical output of goods and services would need to rise almost 6% if this goal is accomplished.

It was the conclusion of the C. I. C. study that various constraints on the nation's level of economic activity will preclude such development, and if gross national product were to soar upward at a 9% plus an annual rate, price increases would account for a disproportionate share of the gain.

The major retarding influences were said to be price and wage controls, however much they may have been accepted as a necessary action to curb inflationary forces, are likely to generate continued caution in the future spending and investment plans of consumers and producers.

At the very least, such controls involve a major cost item for many business firms and a corresponding loss of overall efficiency.

2. The battle to curb inflation has far from a final victory, and at first signs of failure, it forces of caution—now kept in the prospect of a sharp decline in liquid savings—will apt to gain momentum.

This is not a grim prediction that price and wage controls will prove ineffective, or that inflation will not be held to a more acceptable level.

Rather, it is one of the risks which has to be considered as we evaluate the future. Experience indicates that it always is the unexpected which prevents the economy from attaining its full potential.

3. It seems possible at this point in time that the balance of payments situation may become even more critical in 1972 with a consequent impact on business sentiment.

The anticipated rise in domestic economic activity is certain to result in a disproportionate increase in the level of imports; however, the present or near-term gains in export are a question mark.

4. Economic conditions in Western Europe, Japan, Latin America and in other regions, which absorb the bulk of our exports, are not bright at the moment.

Moreover, the isolated foreign exchange rates, where the dollar is concerned, could add to the difficulties of doing business abroad.

5. A rise in aggregate business activity of 8% or 10% magnitude would be a reasonable goal if the declines recorded in the previous recession were substantial. However, this is not the case.

The 1969-70 recession was extremely mild. On a national product (measured in 1958 dollars) adjusted for price changes, declines less than 1% during the 1969-70 recession.

Industrial production regressed 2.0% from July 1969 to November 1970.

Since that time, real output has moved up slightly more than 3% as measured by gross national product (1958 dollars) and industrial production in the last 12 months, but the unemployment rate remains above the year-end figure of 7%.

Considering the impact of the reductions in the size of the armed forces and the number of young people seeking employment for the first time, unemployment by the most optimistic projections will range from 5.6 to 5.8% of the labor force over the next 12 months.

The negative influences which are cited above are not intended to convey the impression that economic recovery will fail to establish an impressive record in 1972.

Rather, they are mentioned to dispel any notion that a superboom will automatically assure every segment of the American economy a vast improvement in sales and earnings.

It is little comfort that a federal budget deficit of perhaps $30 billion is also in prospect for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1972.

This figure, combined with the deficit of $22.2 billion in the 1970-71 fiscal year, means that the nation will have increased the federal debt by more than $50 billion in its effort to stimulate economic activity by deficit spending.

The programs to arrest the abnormal rates of inflation which have prevailed for more than two years, improve the international position of the dollar, correct the critical balance-of-payments situation, and increase American exports are, for the most part, measures which deal with symptoms rather than causes.

There are many fundamental imbalances in the U. S. economy which pose a real threat to the future, such as the corporate and individual income tax rates which tend to limit the level of capital investment and, over the longer term, restrict productivity improvements.

Caught between a limitation of capital on the one hand for the purchase of more modern and efficient plant and equipment, and a near labor monopoly on the other, gains in per capita income will not proceed at a satisfactory pace.

The higher figures being projected in many quarters may be realized in 1972. But, if this is the case, the additional gains will result from price inflation above the 3.5% target. In this case, everyone will pay a high price for a superboom.

Sidener Supply Firm Buys Kansas Company

The Sidener Supply Co., 1101 Nineteenth St., has purchased and will operate the Ulrich Supply Co. of Kansas City, Mo. It was announced today by L. E. Sidener, president of the local firm. The transaction was effective as of Jan. 1.

The supply firm handles pipe, valves, hydrants and other municipal and industrial fittings. It was established in Granite City in 1957. The newly acquired Ulrich company in Kansas City has been in operation since 1918.

The Sidener firm, during the past year and a half has built an office building and warehouse in Washington, Ill., and purchased land in Indianapolis, Ind. for construction of facilities early this year.

Airport Noise Standards Are Being Prepared

(Copley News Service)

Springfield — A first-of-its-kind "bank account" system of noise control for airports soon will be proposed for Illinois.

If adopted, the plan would permit airport managers largely at their own discretion to make "withdrawals" against the total amount of noise emission they are permitted within a given period, with fines backing up injunctions prohibiting further violations if they become "overdrawn."

If adopted, the same plan also would see buyers given a clearly-spelled-out warning of their actual property titles that the property they are buying is located within a high noise impact zone, and that current medical belief is that such a noise rating may have certain specific medical hazards for the resident.

Michael Schneiderman, director of the Illinois Institute for Environmental Quality, said the unusual standards will be sent to the state's Pollution Control Board, for public hearings, shortly after the middle of January.

The institute is currently studying standards for three separate noise pollution controls—stationary sources such as factories and industries; airports; and transportation noise sources, such as moving traffic, trucks, buses, elevated trains and railroad yards.

The "boundary line" standards for stationary noise sources are expected to be ready for the board by Jan. 15, Schneiderman said, with the airport standards to be ready shortly afterward.

Under the "bank account" standards the Institute will propose, the director said, a given airport would be rated and would be permitted a certain number of points on a CNR (composite noise rating) scale.

A manager might choose to have one 747 flight into his airport, because it would be the equal in passenger of four separate 707 flights and emits less noise than the four 707 flights, thus "costing" him less.

More emphasis might also be put on daytime flights, since they "cost" less than nighttime flights.

Meeting Set Friday on New Feed Grain Program

Lee Rogers, county executive director of the Madison County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service announced plans for a program information meeting Friday, Jan. 14, at 9:30 a.m. at the ASCS office in Edwardsville.

Purpose of this meeting is to discuss the details of the new Wharf and Feed Grain Program for 1972. All farmers and interested persons are invited to attend.

Only two other states, California and New York, currently have any noise control standards.

Those in New York have not worked out too well, Schneiderman said. He added that the California regulations are "Byzantine," a "huge sprawling baroque plan where you can't even know what it is, you don't know about the regulations."

He said, "We feel the Illinois plan will be innovative and practical, giving us a way to actually come to grips with the problem."

'Operation Reach' Priority Scouting Program

A special committee to spearhead area participation in a national program sponsored by the Boy Scouts of America and designed to combat the drug problem among young people in all walks of life has been set up here by the Cahokia Mound Council.

The program—known as "Operation Reach"—will get underway Feb. 13. The committee, meanwhile, is preparing for the official kick-off and was to hold its second committee session in Edwardsville today.

In early December, the committee attended a training seminar at the Rose-Hulman Institute in Terre Haute, Ind. Robert Burroughs of Coordinated Youth Services is chairman of the local committee. Serving with him are Dr. George T. Wilkins Jr., council member-at-large; Dr. Merrill Ottwell, Boy Scout council president; and G. Rollin Henn, council commissioner. Committee members under 21 are Richard Wallace and Bruce Blue, both of Collinsville; Kevin Weisse, Highland; Mark A. Benishelmer, Edwardsville; Dr. Ralph J. Miller, Greenville; Mike Bihrey, Venice; Deanne Whitsett, John Walsh and Stanley Manooch, all of Granite City.

Acting as Advisor
William Monical, Scout Executive of the Cahokia Mound Council, is acting as an advisor to the committee. Norton Clapp, president of the National Council Boy Scouts of America, has issued a directive to all Boy Scout Councils in the United States, declaring "Operation Reach" a priority project.

"Young people of all ages, all segments of our communities and all areas of our country are confronted with the opportunity to experiment with drugs. Some will resist such experimentation. Some will experiment and decide it is not for them. Others will experiment and become involved, but almost every boy and girl will be confronted by a significant moment of decision, today, tomorrow, or the next day," Clapp said.

"Since the Boy Scouts of America has a genuine concern for the well-being of all youth, then we must do all we can to fortify all young people to make the right decision. If we are to do this, we must give major priority to Operation Reach."

"We must use effectively all of the organizational resources and communication channels of our movement to reach that goal. It will be a genuine test of our organizational skills and our dedication to the fundamental goals of the movement."

Ingredients Lacking
"We now know that drug abuse is a symptom of the lack of certain ingredients which are needed to build a rich life. Fortunately, these ingredients are the very things which the Boy Scouts of America tries to help young people find."

In his comments on Operation Reach, the Boy Scout President said, "We urge every council to undertake Operation Reach as a priority project. If we will do that we can make our contributions to the solution of a problem which otherwise can weaken youth's capacity to become effective citizens."

A research and development team conducted a pilot project in four Boy Scout Councils in different areas of the United States which proved to be highly successful in combating drug abuse by young people, officials noted.

The project revealed that the difference between users and non-users of drugs are good friends who care deeply. In a survey conducted by the Boy Scouts 40% of the young men 18-22 and 30% of those 14 to 17 said they did not have a "close friend to rely on."

The researcher found, further, that a warm and open relationship with parents; being part of something beyond oneself, and genuine highlights in their lives which make the brief and artificial "highs" from drugs unnecessary, also make a significant difference, it was pointed out.

Both young people and adult authorities have told the researchers the quickest way to "turn young people off" is to launch a campaign to get them to "take the pledge."

Operation Reach has no pledge, just goals.

The young people are encouraged to "Reach" for real highs instead of going for poor substitutes such as drugs; "Reach" for real friends and care deeply about them; "Reach" for warm and open relationships with parents and friends; "Reach" an understanding with themselves by taking an open stand against drug abuse; and "Reach" others by telling them about Operation Reach.

IS OUR HOUSE THE BEST VALUE IN TOWN TODAY???

We Think So—and Heres' Why... In our opinion the Basement House, in the Granite City area, will increase in value, over the value of a non-basement or slab house with a garage, to the extent that its increased value should, within ten years, be worth the price of a new car to you.

The basement home, has the advantage of easy and inexpensive expansion for additional bedroom or family room, while you are making money living in it.

In other words... the basement house has better, quicker, and higher re-sale value.

Too Many Parents Vent Their Hostilities By Physically Abusing Helpless Children

(Governor Ogilvie asked Edward T. Weaver, who heads both the Departments of Public Aid and Department of Children and Family Services, to write this week's special column during the governor's vacation.)

By EDWARD T. WEAVER

How many times have you heard the old expression, "Spare the rod and spoil the child?"

Unfortunately, some adults carry this idea to shocking excesses which have no relation to effective discipline.

As a father of teenage sons, I am aware of the need to exercise controls. But as head of the state Department of Children and Family Services, I also see the damage to children's minds and bodies wrought by parents who vent their own hostilities on these helpless children.

Children have been beaten with baseball bats, chains and fists. A father threw his year-old daughter across the kitchen because she wouldn't eat her supper.

Another burned his little girl repeatedly with a lighted cigarette because she wouldn't stop crying.

An infant was left by his mother inside a paper bag in a train station.

And another mother tried to sell her baby for $500 because she was behind in her payments.

Admittedly, these are the bizarre, sensational cases. They often involve a parent who is mentally deranged or under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

Granite City PRESS-RECORD
Page 40 Thurs., Jan. 6, 1972

But more than 750 cases of suspected child abuse are reported to the department each year by doctors and hospital officials as the law requires them to do.

Also coming to our attention are thousands of other children who are neglected, abandoned, or otherwise exploited by their parents.

Usually, this is not the result of deliberate cruelty on the part of the parents.

Often it reflects their own weaknesses and their own desire to escape the responsibilities imposed on adults in today's pressure-packed environment.

We need to help these parents come to grips with their problems.

The Department of Children and Family Services and various public and private agencies throughout the state are attempting to provide the counseling and casework—including homemaker service and day care—which help mothers and fathers accept the role of mature, responsible parents.

But our first concern must be for the children—especially infants and toddlers who are so vulnerable.

To meet the challenge, Illinois has developed one of the nation's finest child protection programs.

Trained child welfare workers in 13 district offices now respond to complaints of potential child abuse or neglect anywhere in the state.

We have brought experts to Illinois from all over the United States to share their knowledge and expertise on this subject, about which so little is known or has been written.

In Chicago, where nearly 60% of the child abuse reports originate, the department is funding a center for training teams of child protection workers for each of our district offices.

For obvious reasons, the agency discourages anonymous calls.

However, any citizen may report—in fact, he has a duty to do so—any situation he believes is hazardous to the physical safety or mental wellbeing of any child.

Names of complainants are kept in strictest confidence. The department's philosophy is that the best place for any child is with his own family in his own home.

In most child protection cases, our goal is to work with the parents to strengthen their ability to provide adequate care and supervision for their youngsters.

If this is impossible, the department may find it necessary to petition a juvenile court judge for guardianship of the child.

The parents are then required to pay, insofar as they are able, for care of the children outside their own home.

None of these alternatives, however, is as desirable as persons of every age working together to make stable family life a goal which we can attain in Illinois.

Regional Report--$62 Million for Interstate Highway Construction

(Illinois Metro East Industrial Development Corporation)

Governor Richard Ogilvie, in announcing a record $500-million 1972 road-building program for the state of Illinois, allocated $7,355,000 for highway construction in this area.

The total, about $29 million less than the amount allocated in 1971, includes approximately $62 million for work on Interstate highways and about $15 million for work on other roads.

Interstate projects include projects on I-55, I-70, I-64 and I-70 in Madison and St. Clair counties, and work on I-255 in Monroe County.

The 11 non-interstate projects scheduled to be let in St. Clair and Madison counties include four-lane paving on sections of Illinois highways 197, 138 and 159, and on U.S. 50 and U.S. Bypass 50; and intersection reconstruction and improvement at points near Collinsville, Mascoutah, Alton and Washington Park.

For Interstate 270, work is planned on the Mississippi River Bridge in Madison County. In other news concerning transportation, the Interstate Commerce Commission gave its approval to the merger of the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad Co. and the Illinois Central Railroad Co. into the 9,400-mile, 13-state Illinois Central Gulf Railroad Co. The new rail system, which will be controlled by the Illinois Central Industries holding company, also will include three independently owned shortline railroads in the state of Mississippi.

The Illinois Commissioner of Savings and Loan Associations has approved the first branch facility operation for a state-chartered association through the acquisition by Belleville Citizens Savings of Caseyville Savings and Loan Association.

The institution resulting from the merger, Citizens Savings of Belleville, will be located in Fairview Heights Plaza on Old Lincoln Trail in Fairview Heights.

The merger makes Citizens Savings one of the largest savings and loan associations in Southern Illinois, with assets of $88 million.

Cerro Corp. of New York formed two new divisions Jan. 1 to replace its Cerro Copper and Brass Co. division.

Cerro Copper Products Division will be headquartered in Sauget, Ill. The division, which will manufacture plumbing and industrial copper tubular products, includes a plant and refinery in Sauget and a plant in Cleveland.

Frank Higham, now president of Cerro Copper and Brass Co. in Cleveland, will be president of the Cerro Products division in Sauget.

The other division being formed, Cerro Metal Products Division, will be based in Belleville, Pa.

Work on an $11 million housing project at Scott Air Force Base remained shut down in a strike by Belleville Carpenters Union Local 443. The carpenters set up a picket line in a dispute with Cement Finishers Union Local 90 of East St. Louis. This was the third strike on the 400-unit housing project in the last three months over union disagreements.

St. Clair County general fund expenditures in 1972 will be increased by $300,000 compared to 1971 in a budget adopted by the county board of supervisors. Expenses for 1972 elections and wage increases of 5% to all county employees account for most of the increase.

One hundred fifteen businessmen and educators have volunteered to speak to Illinois and St. Louis high school students on careers that need vocational-technical training. In the program, organized by the Regional Industrial Development Corp., the volunteer speakers will show a film titled "The Choice is Yours" and will answer questions at high schools.

In news of area parks, members of the park committee of the Greater East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, in a progress report on the $250,000 improvement program in Franklin-Holten State Park, were told that work has started in the park.

In Troy, 1971 was reported as a year of progress for the Township Park in that city. Projects undertaken and completed include the addition of playground equipment, three regulation baseball diamonds and the stocking of the small park lake with fish.

In general area news, Bill J. Keenum, Highland's city manager of six months, has resigned. A new factory Outlet Store at Delmar Avenue and 19th Street, Granite City, which will feature fabrics and dresses from the Martha Manning Co. of Collinsville, has opened.

The $1 million fund-raiser for a proposed central Madison County hospital passed $195 of its goal with an additional $53,000 pledged. And East Ten Publishing Co. of Wood River named a new general manager of sales and Jack A. Crowley plant manager.

GC Park District to Sponsor Bridge Series

Bridge classes for beginners will start Wednesday, Jan. 26, at the Granite City Park District's Naamoli Center. Amy and Franklin avenues. The program is open to all park district residents without cost.

Harold Brown, superintendent of parks and recreation, said enrollment in the new bridge instruction series will be limited to 20 pupils. Registrations for the class are now being accepted at the Wilson Park office, or by calling 877-3309.

Sessions will take place at the Naamoli Center on consecutive Wednesday evenings at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Helen Meyer, a highly qualified bridge instructor, will conduct the series, Brown said.

$519,048 Values Listed In New County Building

Fifty-one building permits listing values totaling $519,048 were issued for new construction in unincorporated areas of Madison County during December by Jack R. Clifford, county building official.

Included were 22 homes, $402,100; 25 additions and garages, $83,415; one duplex-apartment, $20,000; two business and commercial, $33,533; and one demolition.
